The rocket hobbyist said the missile was powered with a solid solid fuel of his own devising. Knight claims the first stage reached an altitude of 11,000 feet and the second stage went 16,500 feet higher. Both stages were equipped with parachutes.

86 Persons Hospitalized

Smoke Overcomes Subway Travelers

New York—H—Hundreds of subway riders fought their way to safety through acrid, choking smoke today after fire broke out in a tunnel near Grand Central terminal.

A trainman said some passengers became hysterical and screamed in terror during a wait of over one hour before rescuers could start leading them out.

Several subway trains were stalled in the smoke-filled tunnel section, but operation of railroad lines into Grand Central was not affected.

Officials said 86 persons were taken to hospitals for treatment. Many others were treated, mostly for smoke inhalation, at emergency stations set up on sidewalks near the terminal.

Starts in Rubbish

Passengers were led above ground through tunnel exists by policemen, firemen and trainmen. They told of a nightmarish blackness, relieved only by emergency lights which automatically winked on when regular power was cut off.

Fire Commissioner Edward F. Cavanaugh, Jr., his face black from smoke, said the blaze apparently started in rubbish and spread to cable insulation. It forced suspension of all service between Brooklyn bridge and Eighty-sixth street for three hours. The line is on the Interborough Rapid Transit division of the municipal subway system.

Food and Drug Inquiry Opens This Week

Officials Face Quiz On Their Friendship With Manufacturers

Washington—H—A special investigating unit will start a probe this week into alleged wrongdoing in the food and drug administration. Sec. of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming said today.

He told reporters the starting point will be testimony in the senate drug hearing alleging that some FDA officials have been too friendly with the drug manufacturers they are supposed to police.

Flemming said a lawyer, a doctor and a trained investigator will head the suit. He said he hopes to announce their appointment within a matter of days, and get the inquiry underway at once.

His statements followed the windup yesterday of senate anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee hearings on the financial affairs of Dr. Henry Welch.

Flemming Testifies

Flemming testified yesterday as director of the FDA, antibiotics division. Evidence was produced in the hearings that Welch received $287,142 since 1953 from medical journal publishing ventures which did business with firms policed by Welch's division.

Flemming testified yesterday that the investigative unit will look into allegations from "any responsible source reflecting on the integrity of (FDA) employes actions."

He told newsmen he was deeply disturbed by testimony Thursday of Dr. Barbara Moulton, a former FDA official, that some of her former colleagues were far too friendly with drug manufacturers. She said this had resulted in some unsafe drugs going on the market.

U. S. Bond Holders Can Boost Returns

Washington—H—The treasury is offering higher interest rates to holders of certain old bonds maturing late next year if they'll exchange them now for brand new securities.

This marks the first time the government has used this type of ahead-of-schedule refunding, which was authorized by congress last year.

The exchange offer was made yesterday to holders of $11,177,000,000 of 2 1/2 per cent bonds maturing Nov. 15, 1961.

Deny Ex-Gestapo Man Kidnaped

Eichmann Agreed to Surrender for Trial, Israeli Government States

BY ROMAN JIMENEZ

Buenos Aires—H—The Israeli government last night confirmed that a determined band of Jews tracked Adolf Eichmann to Argentina but insisted the ex-gestapo official was not kidnapped and agreed to go to Israel to stand trial.

An Israeli note to the Argentine government told of a relentless 15-year quest that spanned three continents and ended with a showdown in Buenos Aires.

Couched in mollifying terms, the note claimed that a group of "Jewish volunteers" who caught up with Eichmann here and took him to Israel acted without the Israeli government's official knowledge.

The note expressed regret over any infringement of Argentine sovereignty but said the extraordinary nature of the case justified Israel's determination to bring Eichmann to trial on charges of complicity in the murder of six million Jews by the Hitler regime.

Tieup at Airport Would be Effort to Block Ike's Arrival

BY JAMES CARY

Tokyo—H—Radical students today threatened a sitdown strike on the runways of Tokyo's International airport June 19 in an effort to block the arrival of President Eisenhower for a 4-day state visit.

A spokesman for a pro-communist faction of the Zengakuren student federation said the runway sitdown might be employed "depending on the circumstances."

Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi discussed the students' threat at a meeting with the national public safety and army directors and the labor minister. A spokesman said

Barbara Eisenhower Will Share in Tour

Manila—H—White House Press Sec. James C. Hagerty said today the official party of President Eisenhower on his Asian tour, starting here June 14, will include the president's daughter-in-law, Barbara.

She is the wife of Lt. Col. John Eisenhower, who will also make the trip.

Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower, hospitalized with asthmatic bronchitis, will not accompany the president.

"strong action" would be taken if necessary, including barring all traffic from the airport before the president's arrival.

Demands Rejected

Both Kishi and Foreign Minister Aichihiro Fujiyama again adamantly rejected demands from the socialist and communist parties, the leftist students and leftist labor unions that Eisenhower's visit be cancelled or postponed as an expression of Japanese opposition to the new U. S. Japan military security treaty.

"I have no intention of changing the schedule of the president's visit," Kishi reportedly told a cabinet meeting.

Fujiyama told a news conference any Japanese proposal to suspend Eisenhower's trip "would be a stain on our national honor . . . and would damage Japanese prestige all over the world."

Kishi also ordered the government and police forces to take steps to stop leftist demonstrations before the American embassy. He appealed to newspaper publishers to support the government in its efforts to insure a friendly welcome for the president.

Embassy Also Target

The students' federation said even if it did not stage the airport sitdown, it would bring out 50,000 members on June 19 to demonstrate at the airport and at the U. S. embassy against Eisenhower's arrival.

Gov. Nelson Confirms He'll Run in Fall

Calls for Election Of Democrats to State Legislature

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—Gov. Gaylord Nelson today confirmed that he will run for a second term as head of the state government in the fall election and called for a "positive" campaign by his Democratic party and the Republicans in their fight for control at the state capitol.

The governor, who was 44 Saturday, also called for the election of a majority of Democrats to the state legislature "so that purely partisan opposition cannot stall our program."

He referred to the fact that the Republicans have controlled the Wisconsin state senate despite the Democratic victories of 1958 and that they defeated some of the legislation Nelson regarded as vital to his program.

Restraint Tone

The governor's prepared statement was restrained in tone.

He said he believes his first term was one of honest effort and positive accomplishment, and that he has begun many things he wishes to finish.

He named tax reform, state planning, constitutional revision and governmental reorganization.

There has been some frustration and setbacks due to the senate power of the Republicans, he admitted, asking for the end of a politically divided legislature.

Nelson also pointedly praised

Broadway Strike Still Deadlocked

New York—H—Negotiations for a quick end to the Broadway stage blackout have collapsed. Actors and producers both report a hopeless deadlock over wage demands.

The breakdown last night climaxed a day of mercurial ups and downs. No new talks were scheduled.

The day started with high hopes that an agreement on an actors' pension plan, at first considered the key issue, would settle the contract fight that has kept 22 theaters dark since last Thursday.

No Estimate Made

State department officials declined to estimate how much aid might be involved in the newest agreement. Talks have been moving ahead for the last five weeks. Barring an unforeseen blowup, the officials said they should wind up successfully.

Polish and American officials both appear determined

Installation of Superior Bishop

Superior—H—The Most Rev. George A. Hamm was installed today as eighth bishop of the Roman Catholic diocese of Superior. The ceremonies at Christ the King cathedral made Bishop Hamm's spiritual leader of some 75,000 Catholics in 16 northwestern Wisconsin counties.

The Most Rev. William E. Cousins, archbishop of Milwaukee, told the faithful as he completed the formal installation that the new bishop was "a worthy successor to Bishop Joseph Annabring" who died last fall.

Two archbishops, eight bishops and scores of other religious leaders took part in today's ceremonies. A banquet was held at the parish hall afterward and a bishop's dinner for priests was scheduled tonight at the chancery.

New Damage Trial In Ejection Case

Madison—H—The Wisconsin Supreme court ruled today that a 75-year-old man who was ejected from a Reedsburg city council meeting is entitled to a new trial on his suit for damages.

But the high court held that Mayor Hilbert S. Kleber, who ordered the ejection, be dismissed as a defendant.

Emil Schulze contends he suffered a neck injury when Virgil C. LeMoine, a 278-pound policeman, forcibly removed him from the city council chamber.

Secretary of State Goes Before Senate Committee To Ask Support for Treaty

Washington—H—Sec. of State Christian A. Herter said today President Eisenhower should go ahead with his plans to visit Japan June 19.

Herter told the senate foreign relations committee that despite demonstrations in Japan against the visit "under existing circumstances, the president's plans ought to remain unchanged."

Herter expressed this view in response to a question from Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa).

The secretary told the senators that he would prefer to make any further comment in a closed session.

Herter was before the committee to urge senate ratification of the new U. S.-Japanese treaty which he said will strengthen the "fabric of international peace and security."

Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) said the open hearing on the treaty would be followed by a closed session on questions that were not proper for public discussion.

Fulbright has expressed a view that it might be wise for Eisenhower to defer his visit to Japan until fall.

Equal Partnership

Herter said the treaty lays out the basis for what President Eisenhower has called "an inextricable partnership" between the United States and Japan with relations based on complete equality and mutual understanding.

Herter explained that the old security treaty, signed immediately after the state of war with Japan was ended, gave the United States the right to station troops in Japan for maintenance of peace and security in the Far East, but there was no obligation on the United States to assist in Japan's defense.

Under the new treaty the United States is pledged to go to Japan's defense if Japan is attacked.

He said that there is a very important exchange of notes in which the United States agrees to "conduct prior consultation with Japan in certain situations."

Aiken Against Delay

"These consist of major changes in the deployment into Japan of U. S. armed forces, major changes in their equipment, and the use of facilities and areas in Japan as bases for military combat operations other than in defense of Japan," he said.

Not all members of the senate group have joined in Fulbright's doubts as to the wisdom of Eisenhower's visiting Japan at this time.

Sen. George A. Aiken (R-Vt) took a different view. He said that only a minor percentage of the Japanese people are opposed to the treaty and a lesser percentage to the president's visit.

"I think the decision probably should be left to the Japanese government," Aiken said. "If the president doesn't go it will provide new propaganda fuel for (Soviet Premier Nikita) Khrushchev. I'm sure the Japanese government wouldn't want the president to come if they didn't have the situation in hand."

Primaries Will Pick Large Delegations

Nation's Most Populous States, New York, California Will Name Convention Representatives

Washington — (AP) — Voters today pick the bulk of some of the fattest delegations to the Democratic and Republican national conventions.

The nation's two most populous states, New York and California, have primaries.

At stake will be California's 81 votes and most of New York's 114 votes at the Democratic convention, and California's 70 votes and most of New York's 96 votes at the Republican convention.

In addition, one of the nation's least populous states, South Dakota, will have a primary vote for convention delegates.

Residents of three other states — Idaho, Mississippi and Montana — also vote in primaries today. But, like Monday's primary in Iowa, these involve state and congressional nominations.

No Major Changes

Despite the extensive voting, the end of the day is not expected to produce any significant change in the presidential nominating picture.

None of the Democratic delegates in California and South Dakota will be pledged

Story Reports Trip Costs of Congressman

Reveal That Over $2,400 Was Spent On Study Mission

Washington — (AP) — Rep. Robert Chipfield (R-Ill.) and an aide spent $1,358.23 obtained from U.S. embassies during a 10-day study mission to Venezuela, El Salvador and Mexico in 1957, the Knight newspapers said today.

Travel and other expenses raised the trip's total cost to the taxpayers at least to $2,446.02, the account added.

A copyrighted story by reporters Don Oberdorfer and Walter Pincus said details of the trip's expenses came to light because the U.S. embassies in those countries had no "counterpart" funds in local currencies on hand.

The article called the case unusual only because "it provides the public for the first time a picture of how a congressman draws down foreign currency from American embassies and spends it overseas."

Draw on Funds

Under the mutual security law, congressmen with a letter from their committee chairman can draw on these counterpart funds, which are foreign currencies normally obtained under foreign aid programs and held by the United States overseas. The story said:

"Normally congressmen are spending such overseas money have to make only the most sketchy sort of reports on where it went. Even these reports, which are often extremely informal, are never made available to the public."

Instead, the story said, the counterpart spending reports are consolidated by congressional committees before they are published "so no taxpayer can tell what any one lawmaker drew out and expended."

In the case of the Chipfield trip, the story said, the embassies in the three countries bought local currencies with American dollars to give to Chipfield's party, since no counterpart funds were on hand.

The state department later billed congress for the dollars spent, and the house foreign affairs committee, of which Chipfield is a member, paid the bill. Thus the records became available in the house disbursement office, the story said.

Mrs. Steve Sedor Comforts her 8-year-old son, Walter, in a FlinFlon, Man., hospital after the boy survived a 15-day ordeal in the northwestern Manitoba bush. Mr. Sedor and the boy's uncle were killed in a plane crash May 18. Walter stayed with the wreckage until searchers spotted him last Thursday.

Doctor Takes Revenge By Gunning Partner

Shotgun Ambush Results in Death Of One Man, 2nd Physician Escapes

Elizabeth, N.J. — (AP) — An angered doctor took revenge for the loss of his job Monday by killing a former associate and firing several shots at his one-time senior partner.

Police said Dr. Anthony Ruvalo laid a shotgun ambush for his two former partners several hours after he had been dismissed from the medical group they had formed.

He ran down his quarry in the parking lot of St. Elizabeth's hospital, killing Dr. Annunzio La Face. The head of the group, Dr. Francis Merlo, jumped over a 5-foot wall and ducked into an entrance to the hospital as Ruvalo fired wildly at him several times.

Notes License Number

Ruvalo then threw aside his double-barreled shotgun and sped off in his sedan. An employee of the hospital noted the license number and told police. They picked up Ruvalo 15 minutes later at a road block.

He was taken to headquarters for questioning and held on an open charge.

The three doctors, all anesthesiologists, had formed a partnership earlier this year. Merlo, 51, was the senior partner as well as the chief anesthesiologist at St. Elizabeth's and Allexian Brothers hospitals.

About a week ago, police said Merlo told Ruvalo he might be dropped from the partnership in a dispute over how to bill their patients.

Ruvalo made threats in turn, a hospital source said. Monday Merlo ousted him from the partnership. The hospital where Ruvalo worked also said it no longer needed his services.

Regents of UW Informally OK '60-61 Budget

Operational Cost Nears $63 Million; Formal Action Today

Madison — (AP) — An operating budget of $62,972,478 for the University of Wisconsin in the 1960-61 school year was approved informally Monday by the board of regents. Formal action was scheduled for today.

The regents were told by Prof. William H. Young that although the budget would be $6,857,204 above the spending for the current year, only $1,559,042 of the boost would have to come from state appropriations. The remainder would be supplied through revolving funds and from gifts and grants.

A budget of $6,145,762 for operation of University hospital also was approved. This is an increase of $250,048 over the current budget.

In presenting the budget, university President Dr. Conrad Elvehjem said "it does not provide the sort of progress we should be making to maintain the quality of the university." Elvehjem had said in appearances before legislative committees that a salary increase of 20 per cent for the faculty was needed to attract the right kind of personnel.

Young said most of the requested state money for the university will go for salary increases and for additional faculty members required by increased enrollment, expected to reach 26,850 next year. That would be an increase of about 1,300 over this year's enrollment.

Under the budget, Elvehjem would get an increase of $2,580 annually to raise his salary to $28,000 a year.

Truman Says He Turned Down Suggestion for Sending Spy Planes

Refuses to Express Opinion on Eisenhower's Role in U-2 Incident

Chicago — (AP) — A robust Harry S. Truman, harking back to his seven years in the White House, says he and Secretary of State Dean Acheson turned down a suggestion that the United States send spy planes over Soviet territory.

"I didn't think it was right," he told newsmen Monday. "Espionage is a dirty business I didn't want to be a part of it."

He said he and Acheson rejected the state department idea in 1949 or 1950. Asked whether he made use of espionage information while president, Truman said, "I suppose so. Reports came to my desk about things that were going on."

Offers Sympathy

But he refused to express an opinion on President Eisenhower's role in the U-2 spy plane incident, and even offered his sympathy to the White House in the face of recent Soviet tirades.

(The New York Times quoted Acheson as saying in the Washington that he advised Truman to reject the suggestion of use of spy planes "because I did not think the possible results justified the risks. Acheson was quoted as adding that he did not think the equipment available at the time was adequate to the task.")

Truman — 76, ruddy and spry — soberly condemned the denunciations of Soviet Premier Khrushchev and chided unnamed Americans as he warned a large audience the world is "in serious trouble."

He told a gathering of book-sellers and publishers: "The brutal and boorish tirade by Khrushchev directed at us."

He would not name the "certain people" who he hinted that the American people "will pass judgment in due time — about the second Tuesday in November," in an allusion to the U-2 incident and the failure of the summit conference.

His only comment on Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), whom he has endorsed for the presidential nomination, was that "I'm going to try to get him nominated." He added he is not making campaign speeches at present.

Jacqueline Cochran Becomes First to Fly Twice Speed of Sound

Columbus, Ohio — (AP) — After becoming the first woman ever to fly at twice the speed of sound, Jacqueline Cochran could only say, "It was terrific."

By flying more than 1,300 miles an hour, Miss Cochran added another first to her many women's flying records. Several years ago she became the first woman to fly mach 1—the speed of sound.

Monday's flight was made in a North American aviation A3J Vigilante, a carrier-based attack jet. Miss Cochran did not do the actual piloting, but rode in the bombardier-navigator's compartment. The pilot was NAA's flight test manager James Pearce.

The Vigilante reached mach 2—twice the speed of sound—on a level run at an altitude of about 40,000 feet.

Open Campaign To Gain Support For Stevenson

Madison — (AP) — An intensive campaign has been started to build up support in Wisconsin for Adlai Stevenson for the Democratic nomination for president.

James Doyle of Madison, head of a Wisconsin Stevenson committee, has sent out 15,500 petitions urging Wisconsin delegate support for Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee in 1952 and 1956.

Joseph Smolen, who has been handling a newsletter for Wisconsin Stevenson supporters, said Monday the petitions ask delegates committed to Sens. John Kennedy (D-Mass.) and Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) to support Stevenson when and if they become free to do so.

Smolen said the petitions are intended to "impress delegates with Stevenson strength in the state."

Both Parties Endorse Plan To Spur Votes

Designed to Bring On Top Balloting In Nation's History

Washington — (AP) — The Democratic and Republican national party chairmen have joined in endorsing a drive to spur political contributions and votes from the public in 1960.

More than 150 national organizations kicked off the drive Monday. John C. Cornelius, president of the American Heritage foundation, predicted it will bring out the largest vote in American history this fall.

The foundation is sponsoring the get-out-the-vote campaign along with the Advertising council, which will solicit free advertising for appeals for dollars and votes.

Voting is Basic

Cornelius said "Today when our government faces so many crucial challenges it is more essential than ever that our ablest citizens enter public life. Voting is basic, but it is the barest minimum of political participation."

"It is also essential that more of our people take an active part in politics and contribute to the party of their choice. Politics is too important to be left to the politicians."

Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, the Republican chairman, and Paul M. Butler, Democratic chairman, backed the drive.

Butler said it is estimated that the 1956 campaign — local, state and national — cost close to $200 million. He said the minimum cost of a senatorial campaign in a fairly populous state is $150,000 to $200,000.

Butler and Morton told a news conference both parties want to broaden the base of financing political campaigns as well as get out the biggest possible vote.

Policemen Shoot Negro to Death

Blytheville, Ark. — (AP) — Police shot a Negro to death after he had wounded the Blytheville police chief in a struggle at a cafe.

The Negro was tentatively identified as Isaac Perkins from cards found in his clothing.

Police Chief Charley Short was listed in good condition after emergency surgery for a bullet wound in the stomach.

Police gave this account: Patrolman Chester Henson went to the cafe Monday to investigate a disturbance. The owner pointed out the Negro and asked Henson to remove him.

The Negro struck Henson with a heavy chain and ran. Henson shot him in the leg. Henson holstered his gun but the wounded man seized it and opened fire as Chief Short and two other policemen arrived.

Short was hit by one of the bullets. The other officers fired at the Negro and he was killed instantly.

New Candy Record

Philadelphia — (AP) — A new record in American candy production — three billion pounds — will be set during 1960, the National Confectioners association and the Associated Retail Confectioners of the United States reported Monday during their annual convention. Sales volume at the wholesale level this year is expected to be $1,200,000,000.

Milwaukee Youth Says He Was Beaten by Negroes

Milwaukee — (AP) — A 20-year-old Milwaukee youth reported to police Monday that he was brutally beaten by three Negroes. The youth said he remained in his automobile for eight hours before he was able to get home.

Gerald Kuehl was taken to a hospital by his father, Harold. He suffered a fractured nose, other facial injuries, three broken teeth and bruises.

Kuehl said the three youths stopped his car after he had taken his fiancée home Sunday night. They dragged him from the automobile, beat him and then fled. He staggered back into the car and then lost consciousness, he said. He awakened early Monday morning and drove home.

If You Are Sick Chiropractic May Be What You Need

Many people have asked whether Chiropractic is good for appendicitis, ulcers of the stomach, heart infections, eye trouble, local trouble, colitis, tonsillitis, or some of the hundreds of abnormalities which affect the human body. The answer is yes.

Nerves carrying life force supply all parts of the body including the appendix, stomach, eyes, heart, colon and tonsils. Nerve pressure prevents normal functioning of any one or any group of these organs. Removing the pressure from such a nerve will restore the normal structure which it supplies or the function which it governs.

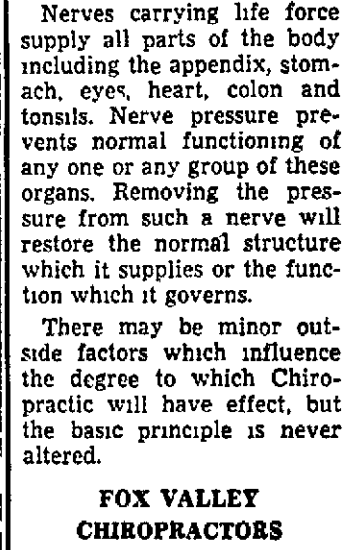

There may be minor outside factors which influence the degree to which Chiropractic will have effect, but the basic principle is never altered.

Red China Becoming Branch of Communist Propaganda Effort

BY GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

New York — Out of Red China comes a magazine, "Evergreen," "a magazine of Chinese youth and students," to tell the world of the wonders of communist China. It is an interesting publication which leaves little to the imagination. On the subject of the relations of Soviet Russia and Red China, Hu Yao-Pang, first secretary of the Communist Youth League of China, wrote:

"During the past 10 years our common cause have resorted to all possible means to create differences between our two peoples, in a fantastic attempt to weaken China and undermine our great alliance. But all their efforts have come to naught. They will never achieve their aims because our alliance and friendship is based on the principles of Marxism-Leninism and the great ideal of communism. This alliance and friendship is everlasting and unbreakable and nobody can ever split it."

"Evergreen" is frankly propagandistic, aimed at Asiatic and African nations which employ English as a second language. Red China seeks to establish itself as the leader of the Asiatic and African nations. Only since the

Williamsburg's Early Days are Fascinating American Heritage

Old Virginia's Charming Cultural Center Crumbled Before Restoration Idea Was Born

BY JACK RUDOLPH
Post-Crescent News Service

Williamsburg, Va., has been called "the city that turned time back." Like all sweeping generalities, it isn't true, but it comes closer than most. The restoration of colonial Williamsburg, a unique and fascinating historical achievement, has to be seen to be believed.

Sixty-odd miles south of Richmond, in the heart of Virginia's storied Tidewater country, the capital city of England's first successful North American colony has been recreated more than a century and a half after its once brilliant sun had set. Here, except for swarms of tourists in modern dress with their cameras and automobiles and limited concessions to electricity, plumbing and paved streets, 18th Century American culture at its best can be seen again.

It took 33 years and almost $70 million, and it isn't finished yet.

Why Williamsburg? Why should this once run down,

First of two articles

sleepy college town be the object of such lavish and meticulous care?

The course of American history was charted at Williamsburg. Significant milestones along that course, all datelined Williamsburg, were Patrick Henry's Caesar-Brutus speech; his resolutions against the Stamp act; George Mason's Virginia Declaration of Rights; the independence resolution of May 16, 1776, which decisively influenced the Declaration of Independence; the adoption of Virginia's model state constitution, and Thomas Jefferson's bill for the establishment of religious freedom.

Incubator of Republic

The little city was the incubator for the principles of American republican government and the political training school for such Revolutionary leaders as George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, George Mason, Patrick Henry and the Randolphs.

And there, too, for nearly a century, flourished a charming, leisurely and cultured way of life that is an equally fascinating part of America's heritage. It's hard to believe today, even walking the tree-shaded streets of this lovely city, move was the royal governor, Francis Nicholson. A tough customer and a capable though unpopular executive, Nicholson had advanced ideas on town planning, which he proceeded to put into practice. The town he laid out — one of the first deliberately planned communities in America — became, in its practical simplicity, one of the best.

First Capitol

A wandering "horseway" that ran through the village from the college and petered out in a swamp about a mile to the east was straightened and widened into a 90-foot central avenue and named Duke of Gloucester street in honor of the royal heir presumptive. A brick capitol building was erected at the swamp end — the first legislative hall to be called a "capitol" since the days of Rome.

Two parallel streets were laid out on either side of Duke of Gloucester Street which, in a fit of becoming modesty, the governor permitted to be named Francis and Nicholson streets. Midway between the college and the capitol a large public square was reserved and another, called the palace mall, cut across the town perpendicular to the streets. At the north end of this green a palatial residence was built for the governor.

Half-acre lots were platted for each house in the town and to insure uniformity, an ordinance required that all dwellings be built "within six feet of the Street." Williamsburg quickly blossomed into a show-case community.

Prosperous Years

It was never very large — the permanent population was only about 2,000 at most — but what it lacked in size it made up in orderly charm, prosperity and culture. For 81 years it was the seat of government, trade and society in a vast area stretching to the Mississippi, a far-off wilderness river that few of the lawmakers ever saw.

They were prosperous years. Every spring and fall, when the assembly and courts were in session, the town's population more than tripled as legislators, planters and their families and everyone else with a political axe to grind or a taste for a little fun and excitement poured in for the "public times." Business, social activity and politics kept the town booming. As England and her colonies drifted toward revolution Williamsburg became a pivot of the struggle. There Patrick Henry thundered against the Stamp act, heated political arguments raged in its 30-odd taverns, including the famous Raleigh, and astute political maneuvers were hatched in the fine town houses.

Horne's Nest Stirred

Although colonial Virginia was split between the conservative Tidewater and the radical Piedmont, the royal governor played into the hands of the latter. On April 20, 1775 (unknown in Virginia the first shots of the Revolution had been fired at Lexington and Concord only 48 hours before), he pulled a sneak raid on the City's powder magazine. The raid was successful but it was discovered. The discovery stirred up a hornet's nest that never stopped buzzing.

A year later a still irate assembly adopted a resolution for independence which was introduced into the Continental congress by Virginia delegate Richard Henry Lee. Another Virginian, young Thomas Jefferson, wrote a justification for the action that became immortal.

That was Williamsburg's zenith. Four years later, in 1780, the capital of the new state of Virginia was moved to Richmond as a war measure and Williamsburg's glory days were over. The town came to life briefly during the siege of Yorktown, again in 1824 when the aging Lafayette returned for a brief visit, and during the peninsular campaign of the Civil War, but otherwise Williamsburg went to seed.

Declines, Awakens

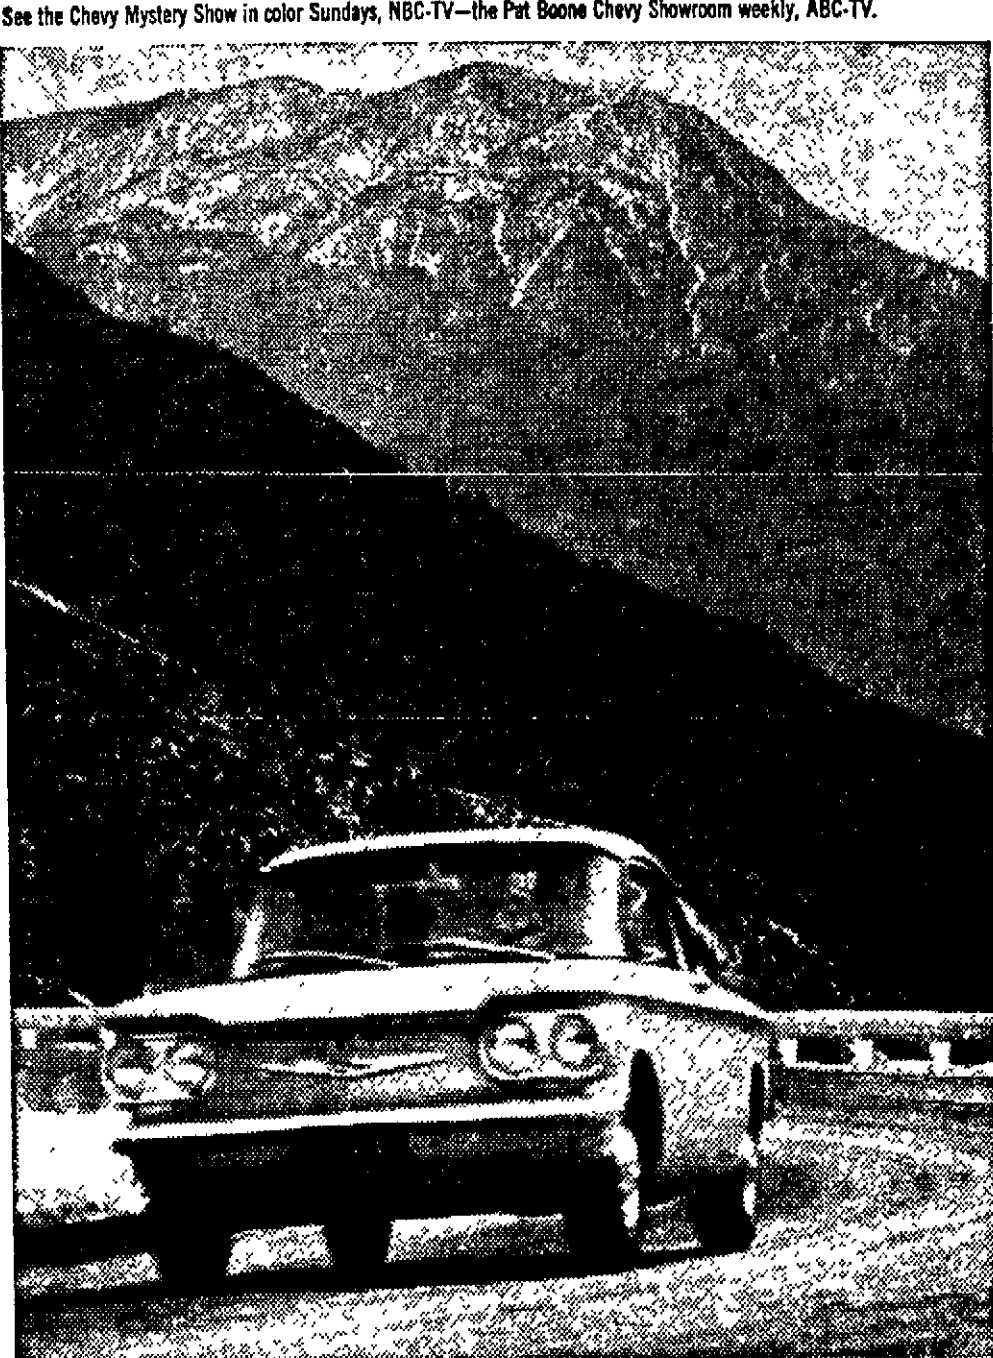

The war and the long years of peace took their toll. Fires, alterations and "progress" nearly wiped out her great heritage. By 1925 it had become a drowsy, down-at-the-heel county seat whose only claims to existence were the College of William and Mary, a collection of crumbling ruins where the capitol and palace once stood, and a state hospital.

Then came the awakening, started by the rector of historic Bruton Parish church. The Rev. W.A.R. Goodwin had a vision of Williamsburg restored to her charming colonial youth and he never abandoned it.

His enthusiasm and dedication paid off when he finally interested John Rockefeller, Jr., in the scheme, although when restoration began in 1927 neither man had the slightest idea what they were getting into. The story of the restoration is almost as colorful and fascinating as that of Williamsburg itself.

The Submerged Oil Lands

The Supreme Court's recent decision on the ownership of submerged oil lands in the Gulf of Mexico appears to have settled little although it reaffirmed a previous ruling that the submerged lands belonged to the federal government originally and now belong to states where the federal government has so provided by law.

On May 22, 1953, President Eisenhower signed a bill which had been adopted in Congress giving the states title to submerged coastal lands within their historic boundaries. The boundaries of the states in the Gulf of Mexico extend three miles out to sea except in the cases of Florida and Texas where claims are made to a 10 1/2-mile limit. The measure had been adopted in the Senate 56 to 35 after a month's debate and the House approved it 278 to 116 only a week later.

The argument over this measure had raged for about 16 years and it was hoped that the legislation would end the matter, but it only served to increase the argument. Opponents of the bill called it the biggest giveaway in history and declared it would set the stage for other raids on publicly owned resources. And it has continued intermittently ever since. The opponents' chief arguments were first developed in 1937 when the federal government, under President Franklin D. Roosevelt, laid claim to coastal lands. It was intended that the federal government should control at least a share of the oil revenues throughout the nation for educational or other purposes. This proposal of course had a very great appeal to the inland states but there has always been a strong majority in Congress contending that in fairness the states own the rights now after oil has been discovered just as they had previously when other less valuable rights were granted.

Bills giving title to the states were twice adopted by Congress during President Truman's administration and he vetoed them on both occasions. In 1947, the supreme court ruled in a California case that the federal government had "paramount rights" to the offshore lands. The court reaffirmed this decision again in a case involving Texas and Louisiana lands in 1950. Thus the court recognized the power of Congress to transfer title.

The estimated value of the oil lands runs into fantastic figures but so far the state of Louisiana is the only one on the Gulf having claim to any sizable sums. Many oil wells have been brought in in the Gulf of Mexico outside of the three mile limit and are claimed by Louisiana. As of March 31 of this year, money obtained for leases in this area has amounted to more than $308,000,000. This is revenue from leases issued by the Department of the Interior and the money is being held in escrow until it finally is determined whether the state or the nation owns it. All indications are there will be more litigation before this question is decided.

People speak glibly of rights extending three miles from shore. Nevertheless the phrase is quite meaningless unless some way is found to establish the meaning of the word "shore." Where are the three miles to be measured from? What point on the mainland or would it perhaps be measured from the outermost islands that lie off a state's coast. If the island rule should be adopted the line of ownership from Louisiana's shore might zigzag sharply, the outermost points extending as much as nine miles or more from the shore back to the closest distance of three miles.

Louisiana's attorney general, Jack Gremlion, says this problem of measurement is the next one to be litigated. It is apparently a question in the minds of some members of the supreme court also for Justice Black, in dissenting in the cases of Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana, said that "the government concedes, however, that their boundaries extend three miles beyond the coast line of their islands — which may be as far as six leagues from the mainland."

Justice Black added that in his opinion the matter would never be settled until Congress settles it by legislation which it believes to be right. He added that he believed, when the matter is finally settled by Congress, all of the states will be treated alike and presumably he means that all will be granted rights 10 1/2 miles from their coastlines.

The Reviving GOP

Attendance at the Republican state convention in Milwaukee, as well as at the district caucuses and rallies prior to the state meeting, all indicated an infusion of new faces and personalities into the ranks of the working members of the Republican party organization. The district and state meetings have offered many encouraging signs for the leaders of the former-majority party which showed a state of shock for a considerable period after the upset victories by the Democrats in 1958. Today Wisconsin has a genuine 2-party balance which is something of a novelty in this state. However, it is a good thing for the parties, making them mutually respectful and careful. It also is a good thing for the state to have an incumbent party that is unsure of its hold on the electorate and a wary "out" party that is vigilantly competitive. Out of such competition arises the most responsible kind of government.

We note that Gov. Nelson, the titular leader of the party which won a strong foothold in the statehouse two years ago, is campaigning eagerly and with considerable energy. Obviously he is making no assumptions about an easy road to reelection.

The Twigs Get Bent

There may be increasing doubts in Cuba about the liberty and prosperity offered by Fidel Castro, but the officials in charge are trying to make sure that the growing generation has "learned the revolution."

The Juvenile Patrol boys range from 6 to 14 years and are decked out whenever possible in khaki and yellow with overseas caps. Their training includes military drill, a lot of slogans like "Motherland or death," and "Down with Yankee imperialism!" and political indoctrination emphasizing the new freedom from the Yankee yoke.

Members of the Association of Rebel Youth are slightly older and include both girls and boys who drill with rifles and are

We also note that the Republican aspirants this year started their road tours unusually early, which manifestly means that they are making no assumptions that the Republican comeback will be easy to achieve. Both groups are correct. The gubernatorial elections and the legislative elections and the congressional elections this fall, for the most part, will be closely fought. Issues and developments of late summer and fall cannot yet be foretold with any exactitude: perhaps the decision will turn on events not yet recorded, developments in foreign affairs, respective presidential nomination decisions of the parties, the content of the national party platforms and other factors not known.

What makes the up-coming election of intense interest is that the Democratic victories of 1958 are not yet assured of repetition and that the Republican ticket cannot gamble that the state will revert to its historic Republican preference in the November balloting. Uncertainty of the outcome is the factor that always heightens interest in an election. We have that factor in abundance in Wisconsin today.

under the direct control of the rebel army. A new group, aimed partly at coping with unemployment of the teenage crowd, is the Juvenile Brigades of Revolutionary Labor. These boys, who are neither students nor holding jobs, will be sent into construction and housing work and will get a healthy dose of the whys and wherefores of the revolution.

It has been axiomatic in most societies that the youthful training is one of the most important elements in how the tree grows. Castro and his followers obviously are hoping to insure their success with the next generation as well as the present. But even well-learned lessons can be forgotten as the free world hopes when it recalls the Hitler Youth movement.

Raps Proxmire for Wasteful Telegrams

The other night, Sentinel newsroom toilers saw an old political practice pushed to a ridiculous extreme.

In quick order, three telegrams came over the newsroom ticker marked "government paid" from the Washington, D. C., office of Sen. Proxmire (D-Wis.). One was addressed to the "City Desk," another to "Cy Rice," one of our political writers, and the third to a reporter no longer employed by the paper. Simultaneously, a fourth "government paid" telegram was received by the Sentinel's Madison Bureau chief at his home.

All four telegrams had significance, he didn't have to repeat the statement four times to the same newspaper to get his point across. He should know that one telegram, addressed to "city editor" or "news editor" would do the job.

Since Proxmire sent multiple messages to the Sentinel, we are justified in wondering whether he did the same thing with other Wisconsin dailies — perhaps with all of them. If he did, the total cost to the government would be considerable, albeit not enough to balance the federal budget.

This little incident, while not earth-shaking in itself, does point up the fact that too many people in government have fallen into the habit of being thoughtless and careless with the taxpayers' money, sometimes wasting small sums, as in this case, and sometimes wasting millions — or billions.

Norway Papers Emphasize West Must be Calm, United

From News of Norway

Norwegian newspaper comments on the collapse of the summit meeting generally emphasize that the west must face the new situation with calmness and unity. And, though the U-2 incident has not been forgotten, editorials praise President Eisenhower for his dignified refusal to let himself be provoked by Soviet Premier Khrushchev's remarks.

Arbeiderbladet, main organ of the labor party, observed in part: "Opinion in all western countries has reacted vigorously against the grotesque statements made by Premier Khrushchev at his press conference in Paris. With one stroke, he destroyed the position that the Soviet Union laboriously had built up in the west. His statements were not, as formerly, aimed at opinion in the west, but in the Soviet Union. There, the people are to be switched from friendly coexistence to cold war. And that requires strong language."

"The aggressive tenor of the Soviet statements is in strong contrast to the calmness shown by the west. President Eisenhower has to bear sharp criticism from his countrymen for his incredibly inept handling of the U-2 case. But he has also won sympathy by meeting the challenging demands with dignity and by not letting himself be provoked to retaliate, tempting as it may have been."

"Thus, the U. S. president has acted in accord with the general desire in the west to avoid doing anything that might further aggravate the world situation. We are shocked by Khrushchev's conduct, but our principal concern is with the distressing fact that the summit meeting failed. Strong words are unnecessary. The Soviet Premier himself has furnished the propaganda needed in the west to make it clear who is responsible for the collapse in Paris. Nothing further has to be added."

The Liberal Dagbladet, Oslo, writes editorially: "The acute crisis created by the turn in Soviet policy calls for western solidarity. We must be prepared for a chillier international climate from now on. There is every reason, however, to meet the situation with calmness and without panic of any kind, whether in the area of military policy or in questions which, for example, are connected with Norway's policy on foreign bases."

Meanwhile, there are further press comments on the U. S. spy plane's planned landing at Bodo, which was protested by Norway, and on the sharp Soviet warning to Norway in that connection. The largest newspaper in Norway, Aftenposten, emphasizing the gravity of the situation, observes in part: "It is dangerous to ignore Khrushchev's violent reactions. But it is no less dangerous to overlook possibilities for an understanding after the storm is over. The moral indignation which Khrushchev has worked up over the U. S. spy activities can't be genuine, for the world knows too much about the Soviet's own espionage."

Morgenbladet observes in part: "Foreign Minister Lange has protested against the U. S. spy plane's planned

More GOP Anti-Lincoln Feeling

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of June 9, 1960.

One of New York state's millionaire merchants, one of the very blackest kind of Republicans, remarked this about Lincoln as a candidate for president:

"I would not hire a bookkeeper, nor an out-door porter of whom I did not know something more than the people of the United States know of this man Lincoln whom they are called upon to clothe with the chief executive power of this great country."

"Have we no statesmen, sir, in the Republican party, no gentlemen, no scholars, no men who have rendered service to their party?"

"How in the name of heaven can we go before the country with any prospect of success with a mere politician as a candidate for the presidency — a man whose highest qualification for that position, as I should judge by the boasts of his friends, is derived from his experience in rail-splitting!"

"It is possible there will be no overt split in the Republican party, but that Bell and Everett will be worked for sub rosa by thousands of Republicans there is not a doubt."

President Roosevelt and his cabinet agreed to submit an emergency legislative program to congress for restoration of NRA on a restricted basis. The president and cabinet met in extraordinary session for more than an hour and a half. It was decided that Mr. Roosevelt would propose action to congress probably immediately.

Under the Capitol Dome

Problem at Southern Colony Isn't Political

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — The full-blown controversy about the outbreak of contagious disease at the state institution for the care of mentally retarded children in Racine county can be marked down as an example of the vagaries of journalism and intimate effect upon a sensitive state political situation of what gets printed as news.

Gov. Nelson, no doubt to his own surprise, started it all when he made a speech in a remote country town, but where an enterprising reporter, Fr. Trygve Ager, happened to be listening and was moved to follow up a lead he thought he found in the executive's remarks. Nelson was talking about the problems of state institution management and their costs, as he so frequently does as a means of defending his own admittedly high state budget. He mentioned the epidemic of dysentery at Union Grove. The reporter telephoned the hospital superintendent and had, indeed, died recently and that the doctors suspected the disease was a contributing factor in their deaths.

The press services, eager for an interesting item on a quiet holiday weekend, splashed the story. Later newspaper editions followed it up. Capitol correspondents peppered the governor with inquiries. He called in Director Wilbur Schmidt of the welfare department to help him provide the answers, and the fat was in the fire.

THE POLITICS

With such display by the news media, no power on earth could have prevented the incident from being injected with partisan politics. Nor did Nelson seem to want to avoid a partisan argument. He deliberately singled out Sen. W. A. Draheim of Neenah, an admitted conservative on fiscal landing at Bodo. Norwegian authorities had no knowledge of this plan. Here is a new example of the lacking consultation with NATO, which is to be strongly deplored."

matters, as a kind of personification of the Republican intransigence on spending bills that contributed to the trouble. As was inevitable, Draheim responded with a bitter rebuttal, saying in effect that Nelson was trying in cowardly fashion to pin the blame for his own troubles on his political opponents.

There it is. Who was responsible for the disease outbreak? How can the sympathetic citizen, not to mention the distressed parents of thousands of children entrusted to the care of state institutions, make a reliable judgment on the merits?

He can remember some pertinent facts about the issue. He can recall, for example, that this disease has persisted and that officials have worried about it at Union Grove for at least 11 years. That would put it out of range of responsibility of almost everyone now holding state office, in the legislature or elsewhere.

He can remember that even if a new hospital had been authorized last year, it now would scarcely be off the drawing boards and would therefore have had no effect in the present epidemic. He may also ask himself, if crowding at Union Grove is the problem and the cause, why similar outbreaks haven't occurred in other crowded institutions, as at Chippewa Falls.

AND MORE

He may wonder why, since these officials are now willing to stand up before batteries of reporters to tell all, they didn't speak in such specific terms when they talked to the legislature which, they now complain, didn't listen when they asked for staffing and building funds. And if they didn't want to alarm the public or the parents, as they now suggest as a reason for their discreet reporting, the bystander may wonder why it is permissible to do so now, or why Gov. Nelson made a public point of the matter in the first place.

After pondering such questions, the citizen may very well conclude what in all likelihood is the truth of the matter — that this was a tragic accident for which no single person can be held accountable and for which the community as a whole must be blamed.

Having concluded that, he is likely to demand angrily that the politicians stop quarrelling about it and set to work to find a solution — as quickly as they can.

Owl Catches Boy Who Hunted It

Beverly, Mass. — (AP) — Nine-year-old John Kausel, Jr., climbed a tree to catch an owl — but the owl caught John.

When the boy reached into the nest, the owl grabbed his hand and hung on. It took firefighters 20 minutes to free the boy. Unsuccessful in smoking the bird out, they played a hose on the nest and the owl released its grip.

Calls Economy Lost Virtue In America

Te Deum Speaker Says Pursuit of Comfort a Hazard

Americans, even those who enjoy a standard of living such as has never been dreamed of before, have trouble making ends meet because they to some extent have lost the virtue of economy, members of Te Deum, Catholic layman's study group, were told Monday night.

The speaker was Peter L. Danner, professor of economics and chairman of the department of economics and business administration at St. Ambrose college, Davenport, Iowa.

He said the habit of economizing helps nations and individuals to use income and wealth in a way to achieve the goals of life.

Virtue Ignored
"Unfortunately, this virtue is largely ignored today because of the false images it evokes: either of the penny-pinching days of the great depression or of some kind of mean-spirited Puritanism," Danner said.

He said economizing actually is the happy medium between parsimony and the foolish expenditure on trivialities.

"Today the forces of advertising and social conformity constrain families to spend on things which they really do not need."

"The economizing, on the other hand, knows what it wants and sets about achieving it. In doing so, it will find that it needs not lower its standard of living beneath that of its neighbors, but will find it can do as well on a lower level income."

He said the practice of economy also plays an important decision which America faces in its international role as leader of the free world.

"There is strong evidence that we have become addicted to comfort seeking and as a consequence have lost the sense of mission and the free world."

"If our love of comfort, if our best purposeless attitude prevails, we will not rise to this challenge. If we cannot forego our comforts to defend our won liberties and to spread the spirit of freedom throughout the world, we are not worthy of the responsibility which rests upon us."

"Like the prodigal, we shall waste our inheritance on trivialities and vanities," Danner concluded.

Named first vice president was Erwin Kienappel who will also retain the office of treasurer.

Orval E. Cox was elected secretary, a position previously held by Kienappel.

John Flory was appointed assistant treasurer, in addition to his present duties as credit manager.

College Man Given Award

W. A. McConagha Chosen by Unit of Lawrence Faculty

Dr. W. A. McConagha, emeritus professor of economics at Lawrence college, has been awarded the Edward and Rosa Uhrig Memorial award for excellent teaching, President Douglas M. Knight has announced.

The award, given for the McConagha first time this year, has been made available by the Edward A. Uhrig foundation of Milwaukee to six colleges in the state.

The foundation has been authorized to spend its funds "for the purpose of ministering to the physical, intellectual, and spiritual needs of children in this state." In making the merit awards to teachers, the foundation is following the President's Science Advisory committee's recommendation that "private and government agencies evolve state and national programs for providing substantial rewards, prizes and other recognition to outstanding teachers."

A Lawrence faculty committee representing all divisions of the college made the selection.

Dr. McConagha officially retired in 1956, but has continued to teach a full schedule at Lawrence. He was trained at Muskingum college and the University of Illinois, and is the author of "The Development of the Labor Movement in Great Britain, France and Germany." He is listed in "Who's Who in America."

The project will cost an estimated $4,305. Installation of sanitary sewers on Williams court and Westwood court was completed last Friday, he said.

School Head Resignation Urged at 'Wega

Petition Causes
Shouting Match
At Board Meeting

Weyauwega — A petition signed by 207 residents of the Weyauwega Union High school district urging the resignation of E. W. Stankevitz as superintendent turned the high school board meeting into a shouting match Monday night.

Temper flared on the board and among residents attending the meeting, most of whom apparently supported the superintendent.

The main objection by board members to the petition was that it failed to make specific charges.

Request Resignation
The petition read, "We, the undersigned, residents of the Weyauwega Union High school district, in the interest of returning harmony and co-operation in the affairs of said school district, and without reflection upon the ability of any persons concerned, do hereby respectfully request that Ervin Stankevitz, superintendent of schools of said district, submit his resignation forthwith to the school board of said district."

Mrs. Alvin Neubauer, chairman of a parents' group which has been critical of Stankevitz, said the petition presentation was "all I want to do tonight" and declared she was "satisfied" when the board moved to "investigate" the proposal.

Refused Confidence
While the petition was being presented at the high school, the city council meeting at the city hall refused to act on a vote of confidence for the high school board.

The vote was sought by L. Taylor, council president, who declared the circulation of the petition was an "undemocratic" action.

Rockefeller Would Accept Draft But Won't Fight Nixon

Albany, N.Y. — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller was officially ignoring today a fledgling movement to try to win him the Republican nomination for president.

A new organization to spur support for a draft Rockefeller drive said yesterday in New York City it would function in 41 states.

About the time that announcement was being made, Rockefeller was telling a group of Republicans it was "not likely" that he would win the presidential nomination. He has said that he would accept a draft but would not actively oppose Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

not to allow the added Soviet-American tensions, heated up by the spy plane furor, to spoil the steady improvement in political and economic relations between Warsaw and Washington.

Top American officials were not pleased that Poland's delegate on the United Nations security council sided with Russia in seeking to condemn the ill-fated American spy flight as aggression.

Reason For Help
But these officials felt realistically that there was little else Poland could do without risking a Soviet crackdown which would wipe out Warsaw's cautious moves toward more independence from Moscow.

Further, authorities noted that the language that Polish Ambassador Jerzy Michalowski used in the debate was scholarly and moderate compared to the bitter comments of Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

Two additional moves are reported in the works as evidence that both sides want to improve Polish-American ties. They are:
1. The Warsaw government will announce in a few weeks that it has agreed to set aside $40 million to meet claims of Americans for property seized by the communist regime after World War II. This sum already has been agreed to informally, with negotiators now trying to decide how long a period Poland is to be given to put up the funds.
2. A "most favored nation" status is to be given Polish exports to the United States.
The state department would extend this privilege as a follow-up to the property settlement to give Poles advantages of lower duties applying to shipments from friendly western countries.

Says Americans Doomed Summit

Geneva —U. S. Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin opened a new round of east-west disarmament talks today with a blast against "aggressive circles" in the United States. He alleged these Americans sabotaged the Paris summit meeting and sought to prevent peaceful coexistence.

"Aggressive forces continue to conduct their subversive actions against peace and the security of peoples and make even more urgent and imperative the solution of the disarmament problem," Zorin said.

A western official said Zorin echoed earlier charges by Soviet Premier Nikita S.
Khrushchev—without Khrushchev's vehemence.

U. S. Ambassador Frederick
M. Eaton refused to be drawn into polemics on the summit breakdown.

Group in New Effort to Draft Minimum Pay Bill

Washington —U. S. Senate labor committee makes another try at writing a minimum wage bill today—and this time the track is clear so far as a competing senate session is concerned.

The week before last the committee tried twice to meet, but the Republicans blocked both sessions after the Democratic leadership convicted the senate both days at the same time the committee was scheduled to sit.

Unanimous consent is required for a committee to meet during a senate session if the issue is raised.

Today the senate meets at its normal time, two hours after the committee hour.

The house labor committee also has a closed-door session scheduled on its version of the minimum wage legislation.

Before the senate group is a bill approved last year by its labor subcommittee headed by Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.).

It would boost the $1 wage floor to $1.25 an hour for the 24 million workers now covered by the act, and bring an additional 10,730,000 employees under the law, mostly in retail stores.

Herter had said he was sure all Americans shared "the made on President Eisenhower.

He said the Russian pre-

800 Airmen Offer Blood to Help Girl's Operation

Kansas City, Kan. —(P) —
Eight hundred airmen volun-

U-2 Investigation Has Established President, Staff Responsibility

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

Lippmann has brought out the relevant facts and the senator has pointed out their significance. The inquiry has shown that the Nervous Nellies among us were wrong.

It is possible in this democracy to conduct an inquiry into the causes of a national fiasco without giving aid and comfort to the adversary. We have been spared the humiliation of distrusting ourselves so much that we dared not inquire into our own mistakes.

In digesting the results, we must begin with the fact that the inquiry dealt with the question which has never before been investigated in this country, or in any other country. The question was the competence of the president and his principal advisors in dealing with an entirely illegal and inherently clandestine operation which is, nevertheless, necessary to the security of the country.

Question Defined
Fulbright defined the question accurately and sharply by declaring after Dulles had testified in executive session that in this affair the issue was not the clandestine work of the C. I. A. but the overt decisions of the president and his advisors who make the policy which governs both the C. I. A. and our diplomacy.

The inquiry has established the responsibility of the president and his advisors for the timing of the flight. They did not order the flight on May 1. But they had failed to cancel their orders, given previously, which authorized the flight that did take place, on May 1. This flight was, as Gen. de Gaulle said in his television address "certainly and at the least ill-timed."

The inquiry has established, too, that the critical period was the week-end from Friday afternoon, May 6, to Monday, May 9. During this week-end the administration issued two statements. One was on Saturday admitting that the U-2 was a spy plane, but saying "insofar as the authorities in Washington are concerned, there was no authorization of any such flight as described by Mr. Khrushchev." The second statement was on Monday saying that such flights were done under the president's order, and implying — as all the world understood it — that they would be continued.

Policy Change
This was the last week-end. These were the days when the United States government not only avowed responsibility for spying, which was indubitably a violation of international law, but proclaimed that spying was a national policy which, so it was universally understood, would be adhered to.

These two statements combined were not only altogether unprecedented in the history of international relations but they were altogether untenable, as is shown by the fact that the president had to renounce the policy publicly in the presence of Mr. Khrushchev at the tragic meeting in Paris.

It is important to take note of the human circumstances of this calamitous week-end. Secretary Herter had returned to Washington on Friday evening after 10 days of conferences in Iran, Turkey, and Greece. The U-2 affair was already in a very considerable mess when he returned, owing to the false cover statements issued by press agents who did not know what was going on.

Telephone Talks
Having returned on Friday evening, Herter had to deal with the mess on Saturday. Younger and stronger men than he who have been on long trans-Atlantic air flights are not in prime condition the next morning.

Moreover, as the secretary of state was returning to Washington, the president was leaving it. He was leaving for a week-end in Gettysburg. The two men did not meet face to face until the next morning.

The momentous decision to allow that the overflights were a national policy was taken after talks on the telephone Friday afternoon, May 6, to Gettysburg. Thus a secretary of state, inevitably tired and rushed by events which happened in his absence, had to deal with a president who was absent in Gettysburg, and in no position to hear the whole argument which preceded the recommendation from Washington.

Bad Results
This is, I think, the crux of what the inquiry has established. The practical lessons of it are clear enough. On the bad timing of the flight, the president and the secretary of state allowed the C.I.A. too much leeway and thus forced upon it a responsibility which it was not competent to exercise. If we were going to go to the summit, there should have been no more flights, once the date of the conference was fixed. To be sure, there were a lot of things we would like to have known during the suspension of the flights. But now we have no summit meeting and also we have no flights.

On the handling of the accident, the first lesson is that all publicity and all cover statements and the like should always be retained rigorously in the hands of high officials who know what is going on. Spying is deception. But you cannot use dupes to deceive others and not risk bad results.

The second lesson is that the high officials should have been thoroughly indoctrinated long ago in the conventions and the practices which have always surrounded the black art of espionage. Manifestly the high officials, beginning with the president himself, were not indoctrinated. They were caught off balance and they improvised in a panic.

It will now be important to see whether or not the various candidates show that they have learned something from this very expensive fiasco. (Copyright, 1960)

Youths Accused of Shooting at Cattle

Three young boys were questioned by county juvenile authorities Saturday after they were accused of shooting air rifle pellets at a herd of cows.

Mrs. Robert Paltzer, route 3, Appleton, reported the trio shot at the cows. A county patrolman later picked up the youths and brought them in for questioning.

Survey Conducted

Census May Show Interesting Figures on U. S. Bomb Shelters

Washington—U. S. census officials may soon come up with some startling figures on the number of privately built defense shelters—or lack of them—in this country.

This year for the first time the census takers counted shelters.

Some authorities, while acknowledging that civil defense is lagging in the United States, think the census will disclose more Americans are building shelters than is generally believed.

No Figures
"We have no reliable figures on the number of shelters in this country," says a spokesman at the office of civil and defense mobilization headquarters here.

"But we know a lot of people are quietly building shelters and not saying anything about it. They're afraid that in the event of an enemy attack, everybody in the neighborhood would try to crowd into the family shelter."

"We know, too, that many builders are installing shelters in new homes. We have reports of builders doing that in large developments in Buffalo, Denver, Miami and other cities."

By contrast, the house committee on government operations has issued a report, entitled "Civil Defense in Western Europe and the Soviet Union," which paints a gloomy picture of civil defense preparations in the U. S.

"Almost no effort has been devoted to the task of preparing the nation to withstand the terrible effects of an enemy attack, should our offensive forces fail to deter such an attack," said the house committee.

The report cites Sweden, Denmark, Norway and Switzerland as having the most highly developed civil defense programs in western Europe. In all four countries, the people are subject to compulsory civil defense service, and large sums of money have been spent on shelter construction.

At a glance, as set forth in the report, here is what other countries are doing.

Swedes Advanced
Sweden: The Swedes have probably the most advanced civil defense program in the world, including deep-rock dual-purpose shelters and underground industrial facilities. H-bomb shelters are being constructed in the center of all cities with over 50,000 population.

Denmark: The Danes rank second to Sweden in civil defense preparedness. Construction of shelters in private dwellings is required by law. Copenhagen alone, with 1,230,000 population, has 387 public shelters, with a capacity of 64,000 persons.

Norway: Shelters in private dwellings are required by law. Dual-purpose deep-rock shelters are being constructed. In Oslo, one large underground shelter has capacity of 4,600 people. About 10 per cent of the country's population is trained in civil defense.

Some Completed
Switzerland: Shelters harbor 900,000 persons have already been constructed, and the government has set a goal of shelter space for two million by 1953.

West Germany: Despite postwar public apathy, West Germany has embarked on a vigorous civil defense program to provide greater protection against the danger of nuclear war than perhaps any other country in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO). Under a program launched in 1955, all shelter construction to cost new private dwellings and buildings erected in cities of several years.

The Netherlands-Belgium: Both countries have begun shelter construction programs, but the primary effort is geared to post-attack civil defense measures, such as refuge work, first aid, and fire fighting.

No Program
Italy: The government has no formal civil defense program, but it has maintained 600 World War II shelters with a reported capacity of 500,000.

Russia: The Soviets have organized a massive quasi-military civil defense program, including compulsory training to cope with nuclear, chemical or germ warfare. Little information is available on shelter construction. In case of attack, city residents civil defense groups, but there is apparently no program for general population shelters. Britons, recalling that only 600 tons of German bombs inflicted 3,000 casualties in one attack on London during World War II, are highly skeptical as to the value of defense against nuclear warfare. By contrast, it is estimated that a single small Hiroshima-type (20 kiloton) atomic bomb exploded over London would kill 40,000 persons and leave 100,000 homeless. Modern nuclear bombs are estimated to range up to 50 megatons, or the equivalent of 50 million tons of explosive.

France: Reinforcement of old World War II shelters was begun in 1957, but the French apparently believe that the cost of constructing anti-nuclear shelters for the general population would be prohibitive. Last year, however, the French civil defense planners were urging a nationwide program of public and private shelter construction to cost $21 billion over a period of several years.

The Netherlands-Belgium: Both countries have begun shelter construction programs, but the primary effort is geared to post-attack civil defense measures, such as refuge work, first aid, and fire fighting.

Italy: The government has no formal civil defense program, but it has maintained 600 World War II shelters with a reported capacity of 500,000.

Russia: The Soviets have organized a massive quasi-military civil defense program, including compulsory training to cope with nuclear, chemical or germ warfare. Little information is available on shelter construction. In case of attack, city residents are expected to use roofed trenches, subways and basements for refuge. Reports have circulated in the Western press about a 1,312-foot deep "underground city" linked by tunnels with the Kremlin about 64 miles away. However, an American newsman recently expressed doubt that Moscow has a single modern air-raid shelter.

Dressen Believes
Braves Have Now
'Turned the Corner'

Los Angeles —(AP)— Braves Manager Charlie Dressen expressed confidence today that his Milwaukee club had "turned the corner" and was on its way to the top in the National league.

The jaunty Milwaukee boss brought his Braves into Los Angeles to start a 3-game series with the Dodgers tonight. His club had won five of its last six games.

"I think we have turned the corner and that we will look like the solid club we have figured to be from now on," Dressen said.

"Wes Covington's bat is beginning to boom and that means more runs and a sounder attack all around."

Bob Buhl (4-2) was Dressen's mound choice for the opener in the Coliseum. He will go against left-hander Johnny Podres (4-4). Buhl has lost only once to the Dodgers in three years and has looked impressive recently.

Carl Willey probably will hurl for the Braves in Wednesday's game with Lew Burdette going Thursday. Warren Spahn will start against the San Francisco Giants Friday.

Tommy Bolt
Wins Playoff
At Memphis

Memphis, Tenn. —(AP)— Tommy Bolt goes to the National open golf tournament next week with a fat wallet and a sweet clutch victory over two tough pros—Ben Hogan and Gene Littler.

Bolt shook off the pressure of Hogan's back nine stretch run to win Monday's 18-hole playoff for top money in the $30,000 Memphis open by a stroke. Gene Littler finished third.

It was the first tournament victory for the flashy dresser from Crystal River, Fla., since he took the National open in 1958. It paid off with $4,300.

Bolt toured the 34-36-70 Colonial Country club course in 33-35-68. Hogan, of Fort Worth, Texas, made it in 37-32-69. Littler, of San Diego, Calif., had 36-35-71.

Cards' Jackson Hurls
Sixth Straight Win

St. Louis —(AP)— Pitcher Larry Jackson of St. Louis, winner of six straight games, says his 7-5 record would be better except for carelessness. And, he says, there'll be no more of that.

The Cardinal right-hander won his sixth straight game Monday night as St. Louis defeated Philadelphia, 5-2. The Phils bunched three of their seven hits for both runs in the first inning. From that point on, Jackson had control. He struck out nine and didn't walk a man.

No other National league games were scheduled.

The Cardinals closed within a half-game of fourth-place Cincinnati by coming from behind against rookie Chris Short (2-1), making his first start. They scored an unearned

Bill Shea Asks Keating
To Let Kefauver Bill
Reach Floor for Vote

Rickey Blasts
Ed Doherty as
'Undertaker' of AA

BY ED CORRIGAN

New York —(AP)— Bill Shea, founding father of the Continental league, today appealed to Sen. Kenneth Keating (R-NY) to permit the controversial Kefauver bill to go to the Senate floor for a vote.

The bill, which would curtail player operations by the major leagues by permitting the draft of any player in the minors with four years' experience in organized ball, must go through if the Continental league is to make it, Shea admitted.

Last Friday, Keating kept the bill from reaching a vote by exercising his personal privilege. He asked for a 1-week delay.

"I hope Sen. Keating lives up to his word that he is interested in expansion," Shea said. "If he forces further delay while saying he is for expansion, it would be a bad situation."

"I am taking his word that he wanted only a 1-week delay. A week delay is all we can stand. Even that was harmful. Another delay would be murder. But I am certain that once it reaches the floor, it will be passed."

Shea's statements followed Continental league President Branch Rickey's endorsement of the bill.

Rickey also blasted American Association President Ed Doherty as the "undertaker of the American Association."

Rickey said the American association is demanding one million dollars indemnity for each of the five cities it stands to lose to the new league.

Unreasonable Demand

He accused Doherty of trying to sabotage the Continental by making unreasonable demands.

"Even if the American association could defeat the purpose of the Continental league," fumed Rickey, "the American association will die certainly, within two years. I have been studying attendance figures and I know for a certainty Doherty is the undertaker of the American association."

"I am not prepared to negotiate with anybody on the basis of a million dollars. The Continental league has the future health of the American association much more in mind than Mr. Doherty."

He added that the Continentals would move the five American association franchises they are slated to take over to other cities and operate them as farm clubs, thus protecting and insuring the league.

NFL Runnersup
Meet Jan. 7
In Orange Bowl

Miami, Fla. —(AP)— Second place teams in the National Football league's Eastern and Western divisions will meet in the Orange bowl Jan. 7, 1961.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle and the Orange bowl committee announced Monday that radio and television rights have been sold to bring in the $100,000 guarantee the NFL wanted.

Profits from the game will go into the NFL players' pension fund. The Orange bowl committee will receive 25 per cent of the gross receipts.

The Orange bowl college game is scheduled for January 2.

Pro Fighter
Pacheco Is Near Death

Suffers Knockout
Loss in St. Nicholas
Feature Bout

New York —(AP)— Pro fighter Tommy Pacheco was in critical condition and not expected to live today after a knockout loss in the feature bout at St. Nicholas arena.

Pacheco, a 20-year-old Puerto Rican - born lightweight, was taken to Roosevelt hospital Monday night after he was stopped by Benny Gordon with 11 seconds remaining in a 10-round bout.

Surgery Performed

Brain surgery was performed and Pacheco's post-operative condition was described as "not good."

The bout with Gordon, of New York, was the thirteenth of Pacheco's pro career. He split his previous 12 but held two decisions over Gordon.

There had been no knockdowns and few hard blows in the close fight until Gordon let loose a series of lefts and rights to the head midway of the tenth round. Pacheco started to wobble and as Referee Harold Valan moved in to look at him he collapsed over the middle strand of ring ropes.

Pacheco's seconds pulled him off the ropes but fell over on his back unconscious.

Orioles Beat Nats
To Increase Lead

Gentile's 3 RBIs Back Estrada;
Chisox' Staley Nips Ford

By The Associated Press

The first week or 10 days of the American league season, Baltimore's Orioles were winning with Jim Gentile's bat and a bunch of kid pitchers, and most everyone said "Forget 'em, it can't last."

Now it's June, the season's almost two months old—and clinching pair as the Orioles scored three in the third against the Senators and rookie Jim Kaat (1-5).

The seventh-inning home run, off reliever Bill Fischer, gave Gentile a 2-for-4 night, good for a fourth-place .340 average in the AL, and his sixth 3-RBI game. He is tied for third in RBIs.

Estrada, now 6-1 with his fourth straight victory, had a 2-hit shutout until the seventh and finished with a 6-hitter.

The White Sox, 4-0 against the Yankees, beat southpaw Whitey Ford (2-4) after being blanked on three singles for seven innings. Luis Aparicio's third single broke a 2-2 tie in the ninth after two errors by third baseman Gil McDougald and Sherm Lollar's third hit loaded the bases. Gerry Staley (6-1) won his third in a row, in relief of Billy Pierce, although blowing a 2-1 lead when Roger Maris hit his fifteenth home run, tops in the majors, in the eighth inning.

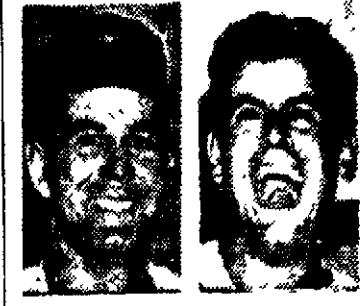

Gentile, who homered for his first hit in the majors back in 1957 with Brooklyn, hit his seventh of the season and drove in three runs Monday night, backing a 6-hit pitching job by Chuck Estrada for a 6-1 victory over Washington.

Add to Lead

It was the fifth success in seven games for the Orioles and added a half-game to their lead over the idle second-place Cleveland Indians.

Chicago's third-place White Sox moved within a half-game of the Indians with their fourth straight victory, getting past the New York Yankees, 3-2, with an unearned run in the ninth. That was the only other game scheduled in the AL.

Gentile, a 26-year-old first baseman purchased from the Dodgers' St. Paul farm club on a conditional basis, overcame spring injuries and nailed a job on his third try in the majors. His double drove in a

As if to compensate for Broadway's blackout, the Three-I league contributed a memorable 2-act baseball drama Monday night.

The Fox Cities Foxes capped a 39-day push from the basement (0-4) to the penthouse (20-13) with 6-0 victory over Lincoln.

Pat Gillick, an artistic southpaw, starred in the Goodland field production as he logged the Foxes' first shutout of the season with a crackling curve and a humming fast ball.

The evening's second act was staged in Burlington, Iowa, where the Bees took Cedar Rapids' measure, 4-2, to lower the Braves into a first-place tie with the Foxes.

Foxes Blank Lincoln, Tie For 3-1 Lead added five in the fifth, with Bob Saverine's 2-run single the most significant ingredient.

Lincoln probably is ready to concede that Gillick is the Three-I league's best pitcher. Both of the strapping Southern California Trojan's wins have been at the expense of the Chiefs. Gillick stopped the Chiefs, 5-1, on three hits and struck out 10 batters May 26. Last night, he scattered seven safeties and whiffed an even dozen.

ERA Drops to 2.51

In extending the Foxes' latest win streak, Gillick became the fourth staff member to go below the 3.00 earned-run-average mark—the generally accepted level of pitching excellence. (The others are Bert Barth, Jim Lehigh and Arne Thorsland.) Gillick's ERA now is 2.51.

The Chiefs, however, weren't nearly as docile in their first 1960 invasion as the final score might suggest. They had Gillick in advanced stages of trouble in four innings—the fourth, the sixth, the seventh and the eighth—but clutch pitching and/or sterling support got him out of it consistently.

A 1-out walk to Ray Youngdahl blossomed into a second-inning run. The fleet center fielder stole second and rode home on Powell's sharp single to right.

In the fifth, Powell opened with his—and the Foxes'—second hit off Szyzewski. Jim Carver walked. Gillick bunted on the third strike, and all hands were safe when the pitcher's throw arrived at third too late. Frank Montgomery popped out, but Saverine slashed a 2-run single to right.

Loads Bases

Madigan became the second Lincoln pitcher, and he walked Pete Ward to load the bases. "Photi" Anthony lofted a long fly to center field, which Don Buford dropped. Two runners scored (with Anthony receiving credit for a sacrifice fly and an RBI on the first run) but Ward was caught at the plate when he too, tried to score. Anthony brought in the final run on a wild pitch.

In the fourth, Lincoln produced three hits but failed to score. With runners on first and second and one out, Dick Selinger singled to left. Montgomery hustled a perfect throw to the plate, and Carver retired Gary Johnson.

The Chiefs jammed the bases with one out in the sixth. Gillick marooned all three runners by fanning Selinger and "Pug" Williamson. In the seventh, a walk and an error put the first two Chiefs on. But pinch-batter Chris Salberg hit into a snappy, Saverine-to-Anthony - to-Powell double play.

Gillick struck out the final batter in the game to run his impressive season's total to 52 in only 43 and one-third innings.

FOX TALES: Among the big booster games in the Foxes' future are the June 21 contest (against Des Moines) sponsored by Little League and the July 20 engagement (against Lincoln) under the auspices of the Appleton Elks club. . . Burleigh Grimes, a one-time spitball ace who won 270 times in a great major league career, watched Monday's game in his relatively new role as part-time scout for Baltimore. . . Gillick's shutout was not only the Foxes' first but the first one by either team in the 33 games Fox Cities has played this season. . . The blisters on John Papa's pitching hand are healing well, and the 4-game winner may be ready to work in a few days. . . Schuler's Schack band not only whooped it up during the game but crowded into the team's dressing room after the game to serenade the delighted Foxes.

Bass Fishermen Land 322 Pound Sturgeon

Tracy, Calif. — Two Oakland fishermen, armed with equipment intended for bass, caught a 322-pound sturgeon in the San Joaquin river near here Sunday.

But it was a four and a half hour struggle and they finally had to beat it to death.

Truck driver Fred Metzger lured the giant with a bass plug and hooked him on 15 to 20-pound test line. His partner was Louie Salado, a machinist.

The Sturgeon never tired but the anglers did. The fish finally towed their boat to shallow water. The anglers leaped out and broke their oars subduing it.

Area Chorus Is Second Best in Wausau Contest

Kaukauna — The Kaukauna-Little Chute SPEBSQSA chorus finished second to Green Bay in area class A competition over the weekend in a chorus contest at Wausau. The locals lost by one point.

Green Bay singers thus gain the right to advance to district competition at Janesville in November. Third place was won by Stevens Point.

In class B competition, Oshkosh finished first followed by Merrill and Viroqua. Besides chorus competition, the event served as a testimonial to the Schmitt Brothers who are retiring from barbershop-ping.

The honored quartet appeared on the program along with the Wausau chorus, Lake-Aires, Mel O' Dons, Hut Four and the Star Tones.

Board Approves $2.50 Charge Over Objection

Over 40 Property Owners Fight Assessment For Curb, Gutter and Permanent Road Work

Kimberly — After listening for almost three hours to objections to an assessment charge of $2.50 being too high for curb and gutter and permanent road installation, the village board Monday night approved the rate despite objections from more than 40 property owners.

Several months ago residents of John, James, one block on Sidney and Third street from Main to Railroad street, appeared before the board and insisted curb, gutter and a permanent road be installed this year. The assessment rate would be explained the project reviewed again in 1961 and to be possibly raised. Property owners immediately objected to the assessment and reminded board members of the $2.25 figure mentioned at the earlier meeting. As objections continued, citizens indicated $2 would be plenty high and before long were arguing for a $1.50 charge as had been the policy previously.

They argued all earlier curb and gutter projects and permanent roads were paid at $1.50 per lineal foot and what was fair for one was fair for all. They objected to helping to pay for street improvements in other parts of the village when they lived on some of the oldest streets in the community and had petitioned for curb and gutter and permanent road over 10 years ago.

Objectors favored raising taxes throughout the community to help finance the improvement as they helped through taxes, to pay for other projects. Some questioned individual board members as to the

Village Legion Plans Picnic

Kimberly Unit Plans Extra Attractions For 3-Day Event

Kimberly — The William Verhagen Post 60 of the American Legion will hold its annual picnic at Sunset Point park from June 17 through 19, according to Clarence DeBruin, publicity chairman. As in previous years the Cub Scout pack, sponsored by the Legion, will operate the ice cream, candy and soft drink concession stand while the auxiliary unit will handle the lunch stand. The auxiliary plans fish lunches on Friday evening and starting at noon Saturday charcoal barbecue chicken lunches and regular sandwiches will be available for the balance of the picnic. An orchestra will play nightly, special prices will be in effect for children's rides Saturday afternoon, the Community band will stage a concert Saturday evening followed by public square dancing. An innovation will be special contests for children at 2 p.m. Sunday. Serving as co-chairmen are LeRoy Schultz and James Williams.

Float $100,000 Loan

The village passed a resolution to write a promissory note to the Kimberly State bank for $100,000 to help finance improvement and remodeling work at the sewage treatment plant. The money will be repaid in 10 years at an interest rate of 3.75 per cent.

In other action the board accepted $400 from the Kimberly Recreation association to help finance an entrance-way and road improvements at Sunset Point park, purchased a city directory, authorized the clerk-treasurer to attend a 33-day school at Wisconsin Rapids and voted to send the street commissioner and one other representative to a University of Wisconsin sponsored research tour on Dutch Elm disease.

No. 1 IN A SERIES ON HOW CARS DIFFER IN BASIC EXCELLENCE

Which is the Rambler?

(HINT: Rambler is the car that offers most usefulness to the user)

"Mommy, Jimmy pushed me."

"Daddy, I'm sleepy."

"Mommy, make Tommy sit on his own side."

Familiar words? Not when you own a Rambler with Airliner Reclining Seats¹ that invite fretting naps at the flick of a lever.

Or you and your driving partner can make longer trips in greater safety, because one can sleep while the other drives. Both stay alert.

The contrast pictured above is just one example of how Rambler is designed to be more useful to the user. There are so many others: sectional sofa front seats¹ that glide back and forth individually, so tall husband and short wife both ride in comfort . . . adjustable headrests¹ . . . generous headroom . . . high, wide doors for easy entrance . . . Twin Travel Beds¹ that sleep two adults and a child.

AMERICA'S ONLY 5-DOOR WAGON

Another example is the 3-seat Rambler wagon, at right. You have a swing-out 5th door that when locked cannot be opened except by using a key. Keeps children safe. No climbing over tail gate or seats to get into the third seat.

The useful roof-top Travel Rack is standard at no cost on most Rambler wagons. You pay extra on all competitive wagons.

Exclusive feature after feature to give you the most usable space ever built into an automobile. Yes, Rambler engineers are always on the alert for new ideas that will make Ramblers more useful to the user. And Rambler production workers, too, are looking out for your interests, living up to their slogan, "Build Every Rambler As Though You Were Going To Own It Yourself."

RAMBLER GIVES OWNERS MORE

This dedication to basic excellence is by no means confined to comfort and convenience features, but goes into every inch of every Rambler, with great basic advances like rattlerproof Single-Unit^{} construction and exclusive Deep-Dip^{} rustproofing.

Because Rambler stands out as the world's New Standard of Basic Excellence, Rambler sales have soared since the new imitators came out—up 27% over last year. With this record volume, Rambler dealers' costs are down, so they can pass the savings on to you. See your Rambler dealer today.

DEAF MAN PERFECTS SMALLEST HEARING AID

ST. PAUL, MINN. — (Special) — A remarkable midget hearing aid has been perfected by a man who has been hard of hearing for nearly ten years.

This small aid has no dangling cords or separate transmitting units and represents a most unusual idea and design in a product for the hard of hearing.

It is especially made for those people who can hear but not understand. This new hearing instrument provides "ear-level" hearing with the wearer picking up speech, sounds, television, and radio at his ear rather than at a transmitter in the wearer's clothing.

Due to the use of 4 transistors, the user operating cost is extremely low and the instrument weighs approximately 1/4 ounce. It is about the size of a sewing thimble.

Paper Goods, Not Presses, Made by Tuttle

Company Does
Annual Business
Of $3 Million

The Tuttle Press company at one time "made nothing but millions of jello bags for General Foods," John T. Fumal, superintendent of Tuttle press, told Appleton Optimists Monday noon.

In an explanation of Tuttle Press company's operations, Fumal noted the company bears the name of Asa Tuttle, who came to Appleton to build printing presses but began using them himself when he found his production doubled his sales.

At present, the company handles about 2,000 items and does a $3 million business annually. It employs 200 people, Fumal said.

Crepe Paper
Its products fall into three main divisions—crepe paper, napkins and paper table coverings, and gift wrappings, he added.

The crepe paper products include the normal, thin crepe paper used on parade floats and for school purposes, a heavier paper used as a flower pot covering, and a heavy or industrial kraft paper used to line barrels or wrap the roots of shrubs and plants.

The table napkins are made in three sizes and are printed for seasonal advertising or general use. Banquet table

Former Appleton Man Is Principal At Grafton High

William M. Burton, former assistant to the president of Lawrence college, has been appointed principal of Grafton High school, Grafton.

He received his bachelor of science degree from Lawrence college in 1948, and became the president's assistant in charge of alumni relations in 1954. He received his master of arts degree in school administration from Northwestern university.

Burton was a captain in the Marine corps from 1942 to 1946 and was recalled during the Korean conflict. He taught at Washington Park High school, Racine, and taught and coached varsity football and track at Menasha High school before and after his 1950 Marine service.

In 1952, Burton was consultant to the U.S. government in teacher training and conducted a school for future teachers. Since 1957 he has been assistant administrator and counselor at Nicolet High school, Milwaukee county.

He will assume his new duties July 1.

Coverings also are imprinted for decorative or seasonal use.

Designs for Christmas gift wrapping paper go into development after each Christmas. Tuttle Press has two artists designing the napkins, table coverings and wrapping papers, Fumal said.

He noted the firm currently is working on a method of replacing cellophane napkins in packages with a soft plastic so the napkins can be hung on hooks on display racks.

Paper Duck Has Bill That Moves, Appears to Quack

BY CAPPY DICK

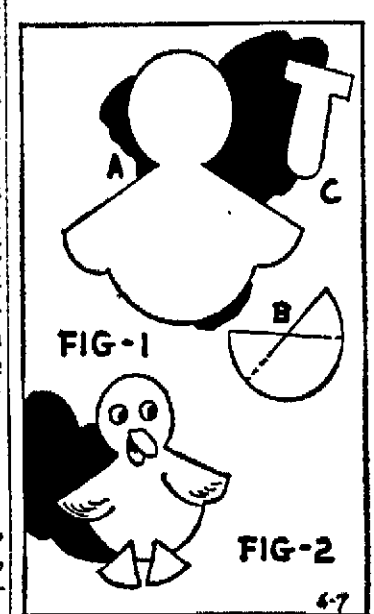

The paper duck in Figure 2 has a bill that can be moved so he will appear to be quacking.

To make one, draw the outline of the duck's body (A in Figure 1) on heavy construction paper. Make the outline four inches wide from wing-tip to wing-tip and four inches high. After cutting the paper along the outline, cut a duplicate and paste the two bodies together, making one which will be sturdy enough to stand up.

Next, draw the outline of two feet shaped as in B of Figure 2. Cut around the outline and also cut the paper along the two solid lines that cross. Do not cut where the lines are dotted. Each foot is to be rolled into a cone and glued, the flaps overlapping to the dotted lines. When you have done this, you will discover that each cone has a slit in its pointed end. The body of the duck is to be slipped into these slits so the duck will stand up as in Figure 2.

The bill is easy to make. Simply cut a piece of construction paper to the shape shown in C of Figure 1. Cut a horizontal slit in the duck's head where the bill should be. Slip the curved end of the bill through this slit. It is easy to move the bill up and down by taking hold of the oblong flap behind the duck's head. With crayon, draw the lower part of the bill on the head beneath the movable flap. Also draw eyes and feathers.

Appealing duck is made from construction paper.

Man Escapes Injury When Car Rolls Over

Chilton — James J. Stritch, 33, of 408 N. Union street, Appleton, escaped injury Saturday when his car overturned in a ditch along Highway 57 one mile north of Kiel.

Stritch told county police a strong gust of wind pushed the wheels of his car off the pavement resulting in loss of control. The car traveled about 360 off the highway and wound up on its top in a field.

Refrigerator for 'Dining in Space' Made for Women

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY

New York—A company that moves kitchen equipment is now experimenting with a refrigerator for "dining in space," according to a company release.

Obviously, this is a sneaky step toward recruiting women guinea pigs into nose cones or whatever it is that space passengers will ride to the moon in. It is known as the gracious living gambit.

The scientists long have been aware that women are better adapted to space riding than men. We handle monotony better, probably through practice. We have better cushioning in strategic places. In fact, we have everything except the impulse to pioneer.

Where Were Wives?
Where were the Wright sisters when the brothers were at Kitty Hawk? Where was Mrs. Magellan when her husband was in desperate straits in South America? Where was Mrs. Ponce de Leon when her spouse was taking the waters in Florida?

No, when the ladies a-pioneering go, it's to rustle up some vittles for the mer folk and keep them out of trouble.

Everybody knows that the human male can go on indefinitely, when left on his own, opening, heating and eating out of cans.

One would not be so suspicious if the kitchen equipment company were making refrigerators for "eating" in space. It's that "dining" that blows the plot.

Ask for Recipe
Dining is different from eating. Dining means a lace tablecloth, lighted candles and fancy food—preferably a casserole dish for which women guests will ask the recipe.

Actually, they'd probably get an oversubscription of feminine volunteers if they'd also develop a space dishwashing machine, peek-height wall oven, in matching pastel shades—and if they'd line up responsible baby sitters to take care of things back on earth for the duration of the trip.

Pesticides Can be Poisonous, Fatal

Bug killers are not to be trifled with. Some such poisons, especially in the organic phosphate group, are easily absorbed by the human skin so that even a few drops can be fatal.

If any pesticide gets on your skin, immediate action is needed. Wash the entire area thoroughly with soap and water. This destroys the chemicals quickly and effectively. It's always wise to wash after using any such compounds, whether or not they spill or splash.

At 6 a. m. Monday morning, a 5-year dream and plenty of hard work finally came to a climax as five Girl Scouts and two leaders of Troop 126 boarded a bus which will take them on the first leg of their 10-week journey into Europe.

The fivesome, Judy Rasmussen, Sharon Renier, Jane Rowe, Jane Tibbetts and Janet Kreiling with their leaders, Mrs. Paul Rasmussen and Mrs. J. L. Tibbetts, have been planning this trip since the girls were intermediate scouts in sixth grade. They got the idea it would be fun to travel when they visited the Holiday Folk fair in Milwaukee. They called themselves the "European patrol" and did everything, from selling peanut crunch to making and delivering birthday cakes for Lawrence students, to raise money for the trip. The girls also have had part time jobs of clerking, library work, baby sitting and other odd jobs.

Traveling Troop
Actually the troop has been a traveling troop since Brownie Scout days, visiting Green Bay, Milwaukee, Madison and Chicago. The European excursion will culminate years of scouting for these girls.

Some of the points of interest the girls have scheduled are the Mozart festival in Salzburg, the Passion play at Oberammergau and the Rhine river boat trip. Their itinerary includes France, Germany, Spain, Italy, Britain, Austria and the Scandinavian countries.

The trip will cost each girl $1,000. Most of it was raised through group projects. Costs of transportation to and from the ports will be provided by the girls.

Express to New York
After reaching Chicago via bus Monday morning, the girls transferred to another express bus to New York. They will sail Thursday noon aboard the Massdam, a Holland-American line ship, and will reach Southampton, England, June 17. They will leave Rotterdam Aug. 27 on the Ryndam and reach Montreal Sept. 3.

The girls were limited to one bag each and into that went a green dress uniform, a green Girl Scout skirt and white blouse, a green wool suit which they made during the year, a green wool sweater to match, tan walking shoes with matching shoulder bag and one dress up dress and pair of shoes. "We will be spending about 90 per cent of our time in uniforms," Mrs. Tibbetts commented.

The girls, who will be seniors at Appleton High school next fall, set up the itinerary themselves. Pen-pals in Europe obtained many of the reservations for them and their homes will be included on the schedule.

Stay in Hostels

In Germany the travelers will be staying in youth hostels which cost 46 cents a night. YWCAs and Girl Scout hostels will also be the camping sites of the scouts. At the Y's, lodging ranges from $1 to $2.60 and includes breakfast and dinner. The hostels provide blankets but the girls took their own sheet sleeping bags, another thing to get into the one suitcase. A cup, bowl and silverware also had to be tucked in somewhere.

The girls will be able to buy food at the Girl Scout hostels and hope to save money by preparing their own meals. "In case we run out of money, the dishes will come in handy," the leader added.

Set Limit

The girls hoped to limit themselves to $5 a day, including lodging, food and transportation. They purchased a Eurail pass for $125, which is good in every country except Britain. They will eat in native restaurants.

All the scouts took cameras. Mrs. Rasmussen is official troop photographer. A colored movie camera, field glasses and compasses were included. A bevy of family and friends were on hand Monday to see the happy scouts off on their diligently and enthusiastically planned excursion. Five years is a long time to plan for a 10-week journey that will end much too soon.

Mrs. Paul Rasmussen, Adult treasurer of Troop 126, collects last minute money from Sharon Renier. The girls earned most of their money through troop projects such as selling commemorative Appleton High school plates, birthday cakes to Lawrence students and peanut crunch.

KD Circles Finish Tour Arrangements

Final arrangements for the "Homes in Review" tour Thursday were made by the King's Daughters' Charity and Genevieve Paulson circles Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Robert E. Johnson, 119 S. Meade street.

Ticket taking hostesses were appointed and include Mrs. Richard Kewley, Pierce home; Mrs. Edgar Degenhardt, McClure home; Mrs. Robert W. Johnson, Buchanan home; Mrs. Robert Spooner, Wichmann home; Mrs. James Retson, Carpenter home; Mrs. Daniel Kamps, Techlin home, and Mrs. Arthur Kuehn, Miller home. Mrs. Charles De Young and Mrs. A. Harold Martin are chairmen of the hostess committee.

The women were briefed on special points of interest at each home. Mrs. Patrick Coughlin conducted the meeting and announced that the tickets were completely sold and that guests would be admitted by ticket only. The proceeds will be donated to the Child Guidance center. Co-chairmen of the project are Mrs. Coughlin and Mrs. James Gustman, Charity circle, and Mrs. F. James Grist and Mrs. David Weiland of the Paulson circle.

Hold Parties for Miss Hirschnall
Miss Marcia Hirschnall, 916½ N. Douglas street, was guest of honor at two miscellaneous bridal showers recently. On May 18 about 36 guests attended a party given at the home of Mrs. Lavone Dalke, 1306 E. Byrd street. Mrs. Doris Schroeder was co-hostess.

Mrs. Fred Latzig and Mrs. Kermit Schmitke, both of Merrill, entertained Miss Hirschnall's relatives and friends at a shower on Sunday afternoon.

The bride-elect, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hirschnall, Irma, will be married to John Dalke, son of Mr. Coughlin and Mrs. Lavone Dalke, on June 18 at Zion Lutheran church.

French Dentists
Twenty-three per cent of the dentists in France are women.

Mrs. J. L. Tibbetts, leader, helps Jane Rowe with some last minute sewing on the green skirts and blazers the girls had been working on during the year in preparation for their European trip. At right, Judy Rasmussen and Jan Kreiling wave goodbye to their friends whom they won't be seeing for the rest of the summer.

In Good Taste Be Firm In Telling Relatives

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I have always disliked my first name intensely. It is rather long and unusual and so I decided to drop it completely and use my middle name as my first name. However, my relatives insist upon calling me by my original name and it really irritates me. My parents think I am being unreasonable in expecting them to call me by the name I now use, and if not, how can I tactfully handle this situation?

Answer: I think they are being very inconsiderate and they should certainly at least try to remember to call you by the name you like. If they do not, you could say, "Please don't call me by that name. I dislike it intensely, and do so wish you would call me (the name you like) instead."

Monogrammed Paper

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a young unmarried woman in the early 30s. I would like to order some stationery for general use but am not sure how it should be marked. Would it be proper to have my name printed in full across the top of the paper? If not, will you please tell me how it should be marked?

Answer: For general use, Miss Mary Anne Smith with your full address beneath would be entirely proper. But for invitations, acceptances and regrets and other social notes, having your paper marked M. A. S. would be in best taste. Or, if you prefer, it would be equally good taste to use just your street address, without either your initials or the city.

Trump Suit Gives Hand Its Power

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The trump suit usually gives a hand its shape. Weak en declarer's trumps and he loses his power to hold the hand together. He must look for ways to protect his trumps, and you must try to continue the attack.

West began the attack on South's trumps by leading three rounds of hearts. South had to ruff the third heart, after which he had only the same number of trumps as West.

Declarer had to draw trumps to safeguard his diamond tricks. Hoping for the best, South led a trump to dummy's king.

This gave East the chance to be a hero, but he muffed it. "Aces were meant to capture kings," East thought to himself, and he took the first round of trumps.

Don't Play Ace
Now East could not continue the attack on declarer's trumps. If East led his last heart, dummy could ruff, and if East led anything else, South could win—and draw trumps.

The correct defense is very simple, but it goes somewhat against the grain. East must refuse to capture the king of trumps with his ace. He wins the second trump trick and can then lead his last heart to make declarer ruff again. The hand now falls apart, for West has one trump more than declarer. West's extra trump is sure to take the setting trick.

Daily Question
Dealer, at your left, bids one heart, and partner doubles. The next player passes, and it is up to you, holding: S—Q 10 9 8 7, H—9 4, D—K 10 8 7, C—A Q. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two hearts in an expert game. This cue bid in the opponent's suit shows that you want to reach game. A mere jump to two spades would be invitational but not forcing. If you are doubtful that your partner will understand an advanced bid of this kind, jump right to four spades. One good way to reach game is to bid it at once.

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

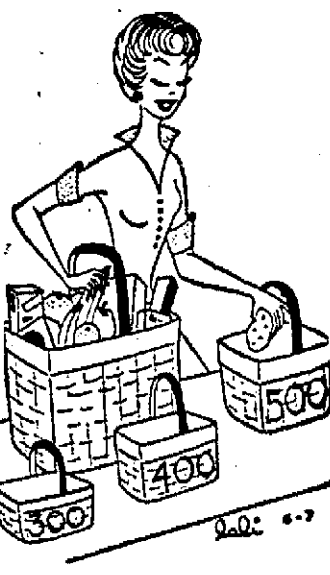

How to Conquer Weight

When dieting, never skimp or skip a meal. No breakfast, a scanty lunch and a whopping dinner will not help you lose anything but your energy and disposition.

You require a generous share of your calorie allowance during an active day, just to keep you going. Also to keep you from getting ravenous and then snacking! Moreover, in the relaxed evening hours, your system neither needs nor can utilize a highcount dinner. And unused calories are the fat-making ones.

The success plan is to divide your daily calorie quota almost equally among three, well-balanced meals. Based on 1200 calories, the average count for dieters, a workable division would be 300 calories for breakfast, 400 for lunch and 500 for dinner. These sample menus show how it is done:

Breakfast — orange juice, poached egg on lightly-buttered toast, coffee or tea with one teaspoon sugar. Luncheon — tomato and cottage cheese salad, two slices melba toast, tea with one teaspoon sugar. Dinner — two slices roast lamb, medium baked potato with half-pat butter, snap beans, one-half cup raspberry ice, beverage with one teaspoon sugar. Mid-morning and afternoon — glass skim milk (Calorie count included in menus).

By using these menus to pattern your own, you will find you can diet and like it —and lose

Do you really know the calorie counts of the foods you eat? Our new booklet, "Pocket Calorie Counter," tells the score at a glance. For your copy, write Mary Sue Miller, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10 cents in coin.

Your Problems

Gal's Apartment No Place To Talk Over Modeling Job

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I came to this city from Lincoln, Neb., to get a job as a receptionist. I couldn't get exactly what I wanted so I settled for a waitress job in a cocktail lounge.

Many public relations and advertising executives Anna Landers come in and they are a smart, classy-looking bunch. Yesterday one of the friendlier ones asked me right out why a girl with such beautiful legs was doing waitress work. He said he could get me a job as a shoe model and suggested we talk it over.

I want to get out of the waitress line as the hours are hard and the pay isn't too good. I have no one here to talk this over with. The only thing that makes me wonder is why he didn't suggest I come to his office to talk about it. He wants to come to my place.

I've heard of girls getting discovered this way but I never dreamed it could happen to me. Is it worth the chance? — Excited

Dear Excited: So you never dreamed it could happen to you? Well — it could and it will if you're not careful. Wake up and quit dreaming, girl. The model routine is strictly off the cob.

Professional agencies have a mile-long list of girls with beautiful legs who are stepping all over each other to get work. Business men discuss business in offices.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am almost 20 and very much in love with a girl 15. She is mature mentally and physically.

Her mother dislikes me because she says I'm too old for Loretta. I say she is mistaken. Love has nothing to do with age.

Yesterday afternoon Loretta asked me to pick her up at school during lunch hour and take her for a ride. Then she suggested we continue to ride and this meant ditching school for the remainder of the day. I agreed.

When I brought her home about 3:30 the principal had already phoned the family and told them that Loretta had "disappeared" from school. Her mother said she knew right away I was involved somewhere.

Now Loretta cannot go out with me anymore. Don't you think this is unfair? After all, we're in love. Please help me patch this up. — Van

Dear Van: Sorry, I refuse to be a party to a patch-job on a romance between a boy almost 20 and a girl 15.

I agree with the mother that you are too old for her. Furthermore, you've demonstrated that you're a poor influence as well. Loretta needs someone whose judgment is better than hers — not worse.

DEAR ANN: I took my young nephew into my home when he was a junior in high school. I paid all his expenses and saw him through one year of college.

He graduated from the university two years ago and now he is married and has a child.

I'm getting on in years now. I'm in my early 40's and thinking about retiring. Do I have the right to expect my nephew to invite me to make my home with him? Do you think he should pay at least part of my living expenses when I retire? I am not married. — W.T.K.

Dear W.T.K.: The reward for doing something for someone lies in a profound feeling of satisfaction. Don't look for anything beyond that.

Your nephew owes you respect and a vote of thanks, but he doesn't owe you support or a home in your old age. (Did you say 40's?)

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for Ann Landers' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Grand Chute Has License Troubles

Town Faces Court Action to Test Liquor Permits Legality

The town of Grand Chute has had its share of trouble over liquor licenses. Now it faces a court test.

First the town board was told it could issue 12 licenses. That opinion later was changed to eight. Then it was changed again to 20. Eleven now are in effect. Another application has been made.

And now comes a petition to the circuit court to restrain the town from issuing any more licenses and claiming that two issued recently are illegal. The hearing is set for June 13 in the action brought by Arthur G. Stranen, who operates a tavern at Highways 76 and 10.

Director's Opinion
He claims the town should not issue a liquor license to Howard W. Branchford, manager of Howie's restaurant, 340 W. Northland avenue, or to any other business. He also seeks to restrain the Guest House Inn and Biggar motel from selling liquor. Licenses issued to those firms are not valid because they are in excess of the town quota, he claims.

The Guest House Inn and Biggar motel requested licenses in November, 1959. The town earlier had requested a ruling on the number of licenses it could issue.

D. H. Prichard, director of the department, said the town license quota was 20 as of Aug. 27, 1939. The quota remained the same until Dec., 1950, when part of the town was annexed to the city of Appleton. The area annexed had 12 taverns, reducing the town quota to eight.

But, Prichard continued, town population as of the 1950 census was 5,681. One license per 500 people is allowed. The town then, he said, could have 12 licenses. Nine were in effect at the time, and the town could issue three more, he added.

After the two firms applied for licenses and five days before the town would have acted on the applications, a letter was received by the town from the beverage tax division.

This letter was dated Jan. 28, 1960, and based on an opinion by Atty. Gen. John Reynolds.

New View
A new beverage and cigarette tax division director, E. O. Jones, using the same data as did former director Prichard, came up with a different answer, the town board members said.

The town could issue only eight licenses because of the 1950 annexation, Jones said. Both license applications were tabled.

Then came another twist. The ruling by Jones was rescinded by the attorney general in February. This was the explanation of Atty. Gen. Reynolds' move by the town's attorney, Donald Herring.

Lawyer Explains
"He had failed to observe that the statute he had quoted in his opinion of Jan. 26, 1960, was enacted in 1953," Herring said. "He went on to say that if the detachment of the territory containing the 12 licenses had occurred after 1953, his original opinion of Jan. 26, 1960, would be correct. However, the attorney general went on, the detachment had occurred prior to 1953 and there was no provision in the 1953 law covering prior detachment." The attorney general's opinion was short:

"Since there were 20 licenses in effect... Aug. 27, 1939, and a like number lawfully issued and in force April 1, 1950, as of when the last census was taken, it appears that the quota established was 20."

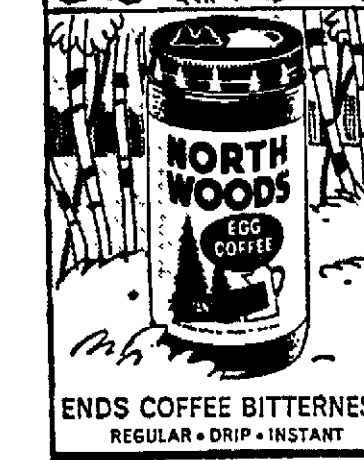

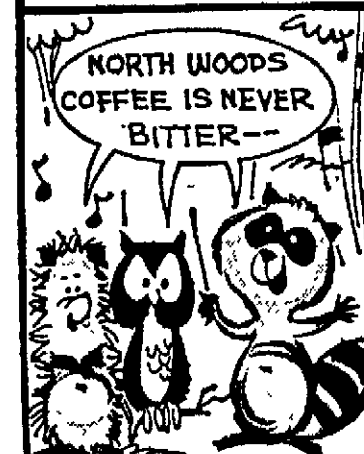

"The town can now issue eight more liquor licenses." Throughout the series of actions the town has relied upon the opinion of the state department of taxation and the attorney general, Herring said. "Now the case rests on the legal interpretation and application of the statute by Circuit Judge Andrew W. Parnell," he added.

Engineers Tell Storm Sewer Job Details

Seek Agreement With Town Board For Route to Lake

Menasha — Robert McMahon and Paul Bishop of McMahon Engineering company Monday night explained the Ninth street storm sewer project to the Menasha common council at its committee of the whole meeting.

The project, to drain the northeast section of the city, can be done in any of nine ways. Plan 3-C, tentatively adopted last July, will cost about $890,000. It is recommended as the best approach unless the city can work out an agreement with the town of Menasha to allow storm sewer laying in the town from the Ninth and Melissa street area northwesterly to Little Lake Butte des Morts.

Klein said he again would try to work out such an agreement.

Alternates

Otherwise, the engineers contended, 3-C would be the best. It calls for a large sewer running south in Melissa street to a lift station north of Jefferson park and discharge of storm water into the Fox river in Jefferson park near the armory.

Other storm sewer plans would cost $727,040 to $1,668,921, depending on the area to be drained and the routes chosen (some have large amounts of rock to be removed).

Minimum wage rates will be considered at tonight's council meeting. They are those set by construction labor unions in the Fox river valley, and many area cities have adopted them for their projects.

City Atty. Richard J. Stefens tonight will present a status report on the litigation filed against the city by former Mayor John R. Scanlon, blocking sale of Racine street park to First National bank.

Find Body of Neenah Youth

Richard Nelson Drowned May 30 in Lake Winnebago

Fond du Lac — The body of Richard Nelson, 21, of 1072 Reed street, Neenah, who drowned in Lake Winnebago on Memorial day, was found off Winnebago park about eight miles north of Fond du Lac late Monday afternoon.

The body was discovered by Nelson's brother, James, 17, and an uncle, Gordon Hess, Michigan City, Ind. It had been washed ashore on the east shore.

Nelson drowned in a boating accident off Highland park, when a boat in which he and two other youths, James O'Loughlin and Michael Tadych, both of North Fond du Lac, were riding, capsized throwing the trio into the water.

The youths clung to the boat, holding seat cushion life preservers. Nelson later decided to try to swim to shore, which was a mile or two away. He took a seat cushion with him but the other youths later saw it drift past them. O'Loughlin and Tadych were rescued between 9:30 and 10 p.m. about six hours after the accident.

Funeral Thursday

Nelson was born Dec. 8, 1938 at Wisconsin Rapids. He graduated from high school at Niles, Mich. and served in the Navy. He was released last Nov. 1 and was a student at Oshkosh State college. His parents moved to Neenah from Kalamazoo, Mich., last fall.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a.m. Thursday at the Church of Presentation Catholic church, North Fond du Lac. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery at Fond du Lac.

Friends may call at the Dugan Funeral home here after 2 p.m. Wednesday. Survivors include the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harley Nelson, Neenah; two brothers, James and Thomas; and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hess, North Fond du Lac.

Education Board To Resume Look at Building Needs

St. Mary's Dropping of First Grade to Add 150 to System

Menasha — Another look at the school building needs was suggested by Pres. Ted R. Neely at Monday night's school board meeting after a letter was read from the Rev. Joseph Becker, pastor and principal at St. Mary's school, indicating the school would be dropping the first grade.

Father Becker said one first grade class would be dropped each year starting with the 1961-62 school year and continuing for three years. Each first grade now has about 50 children.

John Fitzpatrick cited this is the equivalent of six classes or practically an entirely new school.

The letter from Father Becker said that if space became available to his parish, the school would again absorb some of these first graders.

"Position Difficult" "Our position is rather difficult," Neely commented if they are not making a move they deem to be permanent.

He thought the matter should be pursued further with Father Becker.

"As it is now, we are hanging out in the air," John Pawlowski remarked. "We don't know if they will be taking them back for second grade."

Fitzpatrick pointed to the statement in the letter that if space became available St. Mary's might again offer first grade. "Are we going to be sitting with an empty school four years from now?"

The board decided to refer the letter to the properties committee to study along with Supt. of Schools M. J. Gegan and also to seek a meeting with Father Becker to clarify the future plans of St. Mary's school.

One board member wondered if this was a forerunner of what other parochial schools faced with a shortage of space might do and that other elementary children would be sent to the public schools.

The properties committee reported on a meeting with park and recreation board representatives to discuss the layout of certain facilities at the new Banta school. It was instructed to get prices on two plans for blacktopping in the playground area of that school.

Informal Agreement On Labor Contract

Council to Take Formal Action Tonight; Third Ward Residents Protest Flooding

Menasha — Informal agreement on a new city employees' labor contract was reached Monday by the common council, meeting as a committee of the whole. Ratification of the 1960 contract will be at tonight's formal council meeting.

Major changes are 42 1/2-hour work week, in place of the 40-hour week; 8 1/2 instead of 9-hour work day, both effective

July 1; union dues checkoff; and bridgetenders' vacation time, to be taken after navigation season closes.

Robert Swanson, field representative for the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, conceded the union's goal of three weeks of vacation after 12 years was a minor point. The policy was left at three weeks after 15 years, while the union had asked three after 10 and offered to compromise.

The labor contract has been pending since last fall, with one work session on it April

Public Hearing

Menasha — Public hearing will be at 7 p.m. tonight in the council chamber on proposed street projects of this year. All property owners affected have been notified by City Clerk Harry Kind.

Menasha — "Your Life—A Masterpiece" will be the speech topic of the Menasha High school 85th commencement at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the school auditorium.

the development of the program and construction of the facilities of all public, private and parochial youth-serving agencies in that area. He also has been active in YMCA and Boy Scout work.

Before joining American Can company, Deas was research secretary to Chief Justice Earl Warren when he was governor of California. He also served as secretary to the San Francisco city planning commission.

Introduced by Neely — Ted R. Neely, president of the Menasha board of education, will introduce Deas and will present the diplomas to the graduates.

Presentation of the class will be made by L. A. Wiensberger, principal, and M. J. Gegan, superintendent of schools in Menasha, will make the acceptance.

Neenah Town Census Shows 10 Pct. Gain

Preliminary Figure Gives Population At 2,276 Persons

Neenah — A 10 per cent increase in the town of Neenah's population, from about 2,000 to 2,276, was reported at Monday night's town of Neenah board meeting. The census figure is only tentative, it was pointed out.

Town officials expressed an idea that the census figure should be higher because of the increased enrollments at the Lakeview and Tullar schools. They said there had been some losses of area by annexation to Neenah but that the remaining area had been built up considerably in the last 10 years.

Board members also met with G. W. Llewellyn of the Wisconsin - Michigan Power company who stressed the idea of adding more lights on Green Bay road because of the traffic expected when the Fox Point shopping center opens.

The lighting along Courtney court will be improved with the use of larger light bulbs, the town board decided.

Wednesday night was set for a special meeting to review the proposed road program for the summer and to make arrangements with the county as to the grading, oiling and sealing of different roads and what should be the breakup this spring.

bids for industrial arts equipment and approved the purchase of $2,313 in science equipment for the junior high school.

Four metal cabinets costing $228 are to be purchased from the state prison and 70 desk and chair combinations at a cost of $1,197 also are to be ordered for two of the three high school rooms being vacated by the junior high.

Mathematics Texts
Action on the purchase of a new series of grade school mathematics books and of 35 copies of an eighth grade mathematics text was deferred until after the board has had a chance to look at the text books.

Because of the rise in building costs, the board at the suggestion of its insurance counselor voted to increase the insurance on the schools by 4 per cent, bringing it to a replacement total of $4,582,570.

June 28 was set as the date for a meeting to discuss the high school curriculum and the philosophy of education on which the board has been working for several months. The reorganization and regular meeting of the board were set for July 6.

army corps of engineers controls water levels and flows. Mayor John Klein agreed that the sewage plant has not adequate capacity to handle sewage during flood or heavy rain periods, and City Engineer M. J. The biggest problem in the sewage plant, North said, is that storm water surcharges sanitary sewers through roof and foundation drains, cross connections and seepage.

Inc. feels industry has much to gain, little to lose, if it plays down capricious change for the mere sake of stimulating sales and emphasizes consumer benefits instead. The bureau says retailers would benefit by being able to eliminate mark-downs. It cites a boost in dealer profits as inventories can be kept closer to consumer preference. Perhaps lower price tags for us might result.

Quinn admits it may sound preposterous to ask industry, commerce and finance to judge their employees on individual merit instead of on mere age. Yet, some are doing it and finding that it is paying off well.

Too many experienced and creative brains, especially on the executive level, are being wasted simply because an old German general named Bismark centuries ago decreed that 65 was the age for retirement, Quinn added.

DON QUINN

It is intended, a product we do not already own, I'm confident we'll buy. This changed philosophy regarding obsolescence is beginning to creep into the thinking of industrial designers. One insists we need plan obsolescence to maintain good economic health, but concedes that "the answer to keeping our production booming really lies in adding products instead of just replacing them" and in revamping existing products to meet new needs.

What goes for products goes for people, too. Quinn admits it may sound preposterous to ask industry, commerce and finance to judge their employees on individual merit instead of on mere age. Yet, some are doing it and finding that it is paying off well.

If we can create all the new products the designers

The Valiant Is Way on Top, as this picture clearly shows. Although Lavelle Motors is not recommending the roof of your house for parking, it would be proud to have you park one in front, one of the three new American economy cars. Bill Lavelle said the car is designed to seat six comfortably and the large trunk compartment has enough space to provide luggage for that many people for a weekend trip. Lavelle says that the Valiant has a low initial price and low maintenance. The Valiant can now be seen at Lavelle Motors, 230 W. Wisconsin avenue, Neenah.

Quinn Recommends More Quality, Less Model Change

One of the most controversial topics in industry is the matter of obsolescence, according to Don Quinn of Quinn & Sons Appliance store, 340 Main street, Neenah. However, he says he senses a break-through in the thinking of some appliance makers. The Kelvinator division of American Motors corp., for example, has a new policy of discontinuing annual model changes for the sake of mere change.

Quinn says he thinks our clamor for quality instead of a gimmickry should be loud and long. The figures show that last year we spent a whooping $5 billion to keep our appliances in repair, only $3 billion less than we spent in purchasing new ones. Not only the repair bill becoming a headache to us, Quinn continues, but it is plaguing manufacturers and dealers who are at wits' ends trying to find trained service men who can deal with the intricate parts of many a new appliance.

Support is needed to back those manufacturers who will pitch for making an uncomplicated quality product rather than restyle with a new gimmick. Quinn stated. Studying the situation, the National Research Bureau

New Mystery Series Top Summer Fare

Opener Sunday on NBC Well-Acted
Police Action Tale

BY CYNTHIA Lowry
AP Radio-TV Writer
New York—It undoubtedly takes more than two swallows to make a summer, but NBC's new Sunday evening mystery series promises to be the hot weather season's most exhilarating fare.
The series' second show, "Thunder of Silence," was a taut, well-acted police action tale. The locale and the situation were, however, off the beaten TV path: a fire in a state school for the deaf and a superintendent who, investigators believed, was off his post.
The scenes with the deaf children were real and heart-tearing and the investigators were less super sleuths than men trying to do a tough job. It was a good show.

NBC's World Wide 60 went over the now familiar but still shocking facts of narcotics addiction. There have been several of these on TV and radio, and the most recent followed the familiar format of interviewing addicts, parents and authorities. I suppose this is a public service because one cannot be alerted and warned too often about such a situation. The networks should take a similar tack at the highway accident problem—speed has even more addicts, as they say, than "horse" (heroin.)

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who has been away from commercial TV for a long time, has been signed as narrator-hostess for a series of 30 dramas about escapes from behind the Iron Curtain. The busy former first lady is also doing hostess chores on an educational TV show.
"Person to Person" will have a wide variety on its June 10 show—a visit to England's Blenheim palace to see the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough, and to the home of stage star Anne Bancroft of "The Miracle Worker."

A lot of TV stars plan to take to the barns, if not the road, during the summer. Tom Poston, for one, is interested in doing James Thurber's "The Male Animal"—if he can have Thursdays off to come back to New York for "To Tell the Truth."

CBS has a present for the ladies: three new daytime shows for the summer. One is a dramatic series, another a new soap opera and the third a game show.

The oil company which sponsors radio broadcasts of the Metropolitan Opera has assembled its own network of radio stations so that it can bring the music live to listeners next season. It discontinues its 2-year association with CBS-Radio because of a growing tendency on the part of many radio stations affiliated with major networks to transcribe and rebroadcast the opera programs on a delayed basis, often at times inconvenient to regular opera listeners," said the announcement.

ABC has announced a new series for fall—"Expedition," which will feature accounts of expeditions to remote corners of the globe. The series is to be aimed Tuesday nights, starting Sept. 29.

Actress Gloria Grahame is the circus performer under the poised foot of the lead elephant in this thrilling scene from "The Greatest Show on Earth," the movie that won an Oscar for showman Cecil B. DeMille as the best picture of its year. The rerun of this famous film on the big top opens Wednesday at the Viking theater.

Periodic Crisis Expected but Chance of Major Challenge Slim

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Washington —(AP)—Western leaders now look for a stalemate on major issues between Russia and the western powers for the next six to 12 months.

During this time there may be periodic crises brought on by Soviet or red Chinese efforts to probe for weakness among the allies and throw them off balance.

Berlin and southeast Asia are considered danger points, but the chance of a major Soviet challenge to the west at Berlin is presently believed to be remote — pending a proposal by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev for a new summit conference.

In the interim British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and French President Charles de Gaulle are expected to take the lead in trying to work out closer ties between Britain, French Lick, Detroit and Philadelphia.

These include the European common market, the European atomic community and the coal and steel community.

Reexamine Policy
Macmillan reportedly feels that the failure of the Paris summit meeting last month, and the resulting blow to his hopes for broad improvement in relations with Russia, makes it necessary for Britain to reexamine its policy of standing largely apart from the continental allies in the economic field. De Gaulle wants to forge the nations of the European area into a new force in world affairs, as he made clear in a speech this week.

The impact of the summit failure on east-west relations and the development of future allied strategy were discussed around the dinner table last night by Sec. of State Christian A. Herter, Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville to France and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd. They met at Herter's home.

The three are attending a conference here this week of foreign ministers of the Southeast Asia Treaty organization (SEATO). Herter told the SEATO SEATO council that since the summit conference breakdown new probing actions by the communist powers must be expected, particularly in the far east.

Present Belief
The present belief among western officials, however, is reported to be — not that the Chinese reds are planning a frontal attack on any country, but that they will try by subversion to make trouble in personal attacks on Eisenhower under allied protection, like South Viet Nam.
So far as diplomatic relations with Russia are concerned, western officials are said to be largely convinced that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev does not want to start the cold war going full-scale again. On the contrary, they think he wants to keep

Student From Appleton Gets Highest Honors With College Degree

Miss Joanne Zimmerman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Zimmerman, 211 N. Lawrence street, was among the 211 seniors to receive degrees Sunday afternoon at Beloit college's 110th commencement exercises. She graduated with highest honors — Zimmerman summa cum laude. She received a bachelor of arts degree in philosophy.

Richard M. Cochrane, Appleton, will receive a bachelor of arts degree in business and economics Tuesday at the University of Minnesota, Duluth.

the way open for summit negotiations with Eisenhower's successor some time next year.

At Paris two weeks ago and later in a speech in East Berlin the Soviet leader talked about a new summit conference in six or eight months. He deferred action on a Berlin showdown at least until that time.

Preserve Pressure
By staying his hand on Berlin Khrushchev has preserved a pressure, the threat of a war - breeding Berlin crisis, which he undoubtedly hopes to use if necessary to force the leaders of the United States, Britain and France back to the conference table.

Indications at the moment are that he may find this far more difficult to achieve than he did last year when his threat to Berlin persuaded President Eisenhower to agree to a meeting. The dominant attitude in the west now, especially in Paris and Washington, is that summit diplomacy was badly damaged by Khrushchev's bitter version to make trouble in personal attacks on Eisenhower under allied protection, like South Viet Nam.

Even if the next U.S. president is willing to attend a summit conference, none is considered likely for at least a year. The extent of preparations needed after he took office would make such a top start the cold war going full-scale again. On the contrary, most impossible before the summer or fall of 1961.

Appleton Area Employment Up 1.7 Per Cent

Another Increase Expected in Next Several Months

A seasonal upsurge in textiles, paper, construction and retail trade has raised employment in Appleton 1.7 per cent, from 12,358 in March to 12,574 in May.

Another 1.7 per cent gain is expected in the next two months, according to the June labor market report of the Wisconsin State Employment Service.

Seasonal work is expected to raise the demand for workers above normal replacement needs. Most opportunities will be in food processing plants, for in-plant work or field operations.

More Workers

The area's present labor supply will be amply augmented by recent high school graduates, many of whom are entering the commercial field and satisfying the demand for clerical workers.

Requests for full-time agricultural workers exceeds the supply and a further shortage of seasonal workers is expected because of late harvest date caused by delayed spring planting.

It is expected migrant workers will have left this area by the time some crops are ready for harvest. To insure against crop loss some employers may bring in a limited number of workers from the West Indies and Mexico.

Layoff Rate Down

The layoff rate for the last two months shrunk to a new low of two per thousand workers, compared to seven per thousand in February. The rate of hire in April held the same as February, 17 per thousand.

Fred R. Gehrke, manager of the Appleton district WSES office, says the active file of persons looking for work dropped to 1,293 in May, compared to 1,418 in April.

Requests for workers rose to 350 in May, compared to 285 in April and 301 a year ago.

In May, 401 persons were referred to jobs, compared to 298 in May and 338 a year ago.

Of those referred, 176 were hired, compared with 141 in April and 182 in May, 1959.

Actually more than 176 were hired, Gehrke explained, but did not start work until after June 1 and so could not be counted in the May report.

Manufacturing plants hired most of the referrals, 72.

Next came service companies, 30, then wholesale and retail trade establishments, 28.

Public Employe Unions Said to Have Values

Can Do Good in Collective Bargaining, Personnel Relations, UW Professor Says

BY REINHART WESSING
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Milwaukee — The area's where public employe unions can do the most good are in fostering better personnel relations and giving employees the chance for collective bargaining, Dr. Alton Johnson, professor of commerce at the University of Wisconsin, said at the first session of the institute on city-union relations sponsored by the NW bureau of government.

The meeting opened this morning at the Hotel Schroeder.

He also indicated that public employe unions, unlike craft and industrial unions, are still in their infancy. It was only last year that the Wisconsin legislature guaranteed public employes the right to organize.

Much improvement still is needed in several areas, Johnson said. One of the most controversial is whether public employes should be allowed to strike and to form picket lines. Under the present law, this is illegal when it interferes with governmental operations. Public officials generally are against the strike and picket, while many employes say they should have the same right as industrial workers, he said.

Arbitration Issue

Another area is arbitration and negotiation, he continued. Can a city delegate some of its power to a bargaining organization such as a union? Unions may be recognized by cities as bargaining agents, but the law does not say they have to be recognized.

Wages, hours and working conditions cannot be legislated but have to be left to collective bargaining, Johnson said.

Public officials often find it difficult to bargain on these things outside of budget time if funds have not been included in the previous year's budget.

The argument used in favor of collective bargaining is that they have similar aims as workers in other fields and therefore should have the same treatment.

An argument against collective bargaining is that governmental units are sovereign and cannot relinquish any of their rights to a union or bargaining agent. Also, some municipalities claim that public employe unions cause a division of allegiance between the city and union.

Appleton Has Unions

In 1932 the first state employe organization was started in Appleton, one of the way.

The American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, founded in Madison. It now has 200,000 members in the nation and headquarters have been moved to Washington, D. C.

About 100 employes in the Appleton street, sanitation and park departments are represented by the Teamsters' union, and 100 county highway employes are represented by the Wisconsin Council of County and Municipal Employees.

Among those attending the institute are Appleton Director of Public Works Edwin J. Duszynski, City Atty. Don L. Jury, Aldermen Thomas K. Schneider and Kenneth Priebe, and Robert Schlieve of the Appleton Teamsters.

Sunday Sermon

Man Must Seek To Lose His Life for God

Christian Is Jury in Life's Trial, Pastor Says

Man must be more than a provincial. Christian, he must lose his life for God as God lost his life for the world, the Rev. James Vahey, pastor of St. James Methodist church, told his congregation Sunday.

The pastor used as his text, Mark 8:37. "He who seeks to save his life will lose it: it is the man who loses his life for Christ's sake, and find it, whether he will lose his life or try to save his own life, and Christ reminds us that in the church we dare not become too provincial. In other words, we are more interested in safety and protection coming to us by default, rather than risking all of life for the sake of God."

"We must go beyond the province of our own strength to lose life. You'll never find God by staying at the feasts and celebrations of home. At Pentecost they went out to save their lives with vision and great enthusiasm. And tomorrow, we are the same. Unless we risk a trial, we shall not find life's greatness. We will find a people who have lost our lives for my sake who will give us life. What can a man give in return for his life?"

He said each man's personal life is a case yet untried, and each man is the jury in that case. He must decide

Success Not Sin

We are asked to lose our lives to God, the Rev. Mr. Vahey said, because we must pay the debt of life itself.

"Nowhere in the Bible... does Christ say we should not be successful or that success is a sin. But he does say, in Mark's gospel, that if you are to save your life, then the way is to lose your life in the strength of God."

Continuing Trial

The Rev. Mr. Vahey said that life undoubtedly is worth the trial, and added that Christianity is predicated on the belief in the worthiness of life.

The trial is a continuing one, he said, for we never reach the point where we can say we are totally saved.

"There is no way to save life on our own, to make it beautiful and great." But we are not on our own if the name of God stands for something, the pastor said.

He added that the frustrations man meets can be overcome if a man carries through until he again is caught in the surge of another of God's moves to save him.

"Great and needed is the person who, when it seems everything good has come to an end, and indeed, when it appears as if the world might come to an end in today's tension; great is the person who can go one step further toward home, unafraid, and find salvation next door."

Control Program Begins a Month Late This Year

Appleton's mosquito control program is scheduled to begin tonight, nearly a month behind the usually starting time.

Fogging with DDT has been done the last three years and usually started about the middle of May.

Claude Greisch, superintendent of the sanitation department, says Greisch told the board of health last week he hadn't begun this year because no orders were issued and no bids taken for material.

Order Material

Mayor Mitchell signed an emergency purchase order so he could purchase DDT and the oil base with which it is mixed. The city clerk was authorized to advertise for bids for more.

Greisch says residential areas usually are fogged about three times each summer. Parks, ravines, low lands and dumping areas are treated much oftener.

It is expected more fogging will be needed this year because of the wet weather, Greisch noted. During dry summers, mosquitoes are less of a problem.

Seed Water Holes

Dr. Marvin S. Kagen, health commissioner, has suggested the city seed stagnant water holes with DDT pellets. This was ordered done in parks, but it was noted pellets are most effective early in spring when mosquitoes are still in the larval stage and have not taken to the air.

The control program cost $4,378.57 last year, according to records in the comptroller's office.

About 1,500 gallons of 25 per cent DDT is purchased each year, and cut to 5 per cent by adding the oil base.

Spraying for Mosquitoes Starts Tonight

Appleton's mosquito control program is scheduled to begin tonight, nearly a month behind the usually starting time.

Fogging with DDT has been done the last three years and usually started about the middle of May.

Share Prices Again Higher Advances Up to 2 Points Made On Exchange

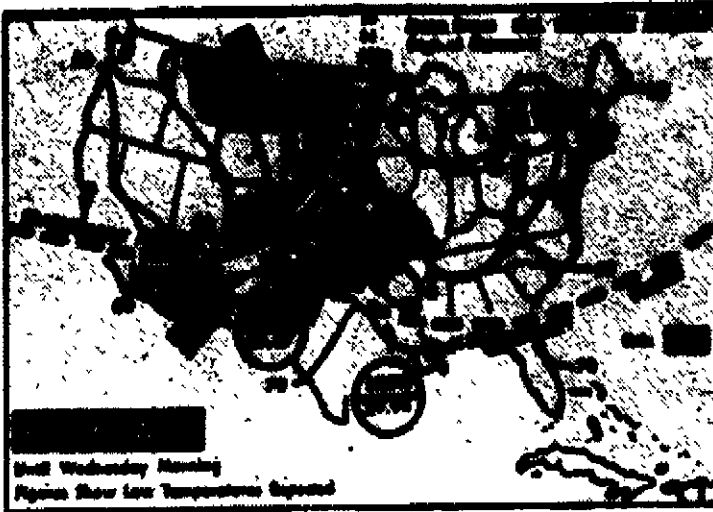

New York — The stock market wheelhorses continued to ride high late this afternoon while glamor issues took a back seat. Trading was heavy. Gains of fractions to more than 2 points were shown by investment quality issues. Market averages had recovered all losses up to late January. The Dow Jones industrial average smashed through a "formidable resistance area" in the 636-638 zone, according to analysts. Some profit taking affected the resurgent steels as the session wore on. Motors, rails, and chemicals continued to forge gains. Hopes of a summer rally were bolstered by reports of largest retail sales for autos since May 1955 and by reports of sharply reduced steel inventories.

Some substantial gains appeared among selected oils, rubbers, electrical equipments and building supply stocks. Jones & Laughlin kept a gain of more than a point. Chrysler rose 1 and Ford 2. DuPont and Eastman Kodak gained about 3 apiece. Ahead around a point were Allied Chemical, Air Reduction and American Cyanamid.

Texasco, up more than a point, paced a generally firm oil section. Kennecott and Illinois Central, up about a point, did well among the higher coppers and rails.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 5.33 to 642.45. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.40 to 220.20 with the industrials up 2.80, the rails up .90 and the utilities unchanged. Corporate bonds advanced, a ditch where it had become. Governments declined slightly.

Small Wednesday Morning
 Approximate Low Temperature Expected

Scattered Showers and Thundershowers are expected tonight in the upper and middle Mississippi valley, the plains states, southern Rockies and Arizona. Cooler weather is forecast for the northern Rockies and it will continue cool on the north Atlantic coast. It will be warmer in the plains states and the Mississippi, Ohio and Tennessee valleys.

Youth Pinned When Tractor Overturns

An Appleton youth was injured about 10 a.m. today when he was pinned beneath a tractor which tipped when a truck tried to pull it from a ditch where it had become mired.

John Nystrom, 20, 514 E.

Randall street, was taken to Memorial hospital by Larry's ambulance. The extent of his injuries had not been determined at noon today, a hospital spokesman said.

County police said Nystrom was working with the tractor at 619 Sunset avenue. Grand Chute, when the machine became stuck.

Richard Hietpas, 212 Coolidge avenue, hooked on to the tractor with his truck in an attempt to free it. Nystrom was seated on the tractor when it overturned.

Cool Spell Continues In Fox Cities

Cool weather remains in the Fox Cities but there is sunshine with it. High temperature Monday was 63.

The temperature at 10 a.m. today was already two degrees higher than Monday's high. More warm air is expected Wednesday.

In other portions of the nation Texas, New Mexico, Kansas, the plateau region and the Carolinas had rain today. Precipitation was in the form of thundershowers. Elsewhere skies were clear and temperatures moderate.

Students Cause Busy Week at WSES Office

College and high school students in search of summer employment are expected to cause one of the busiest weeks of the year this week at the Wisconsin State Employment service.

Fred R. Gehrke, manager, said today 166 people, most of them students, were interviewed Monday. He said 130 have been placed so far this month. Most of these were in clerical work, he said.

Summer job opportunities in the county are "very limited," Gehrke said because most mills are not expanding production and therefore provide few new jobs. Many plants also close for two weeks in the summer, almost eliminating the need for summer rehiring.

Gehrke said firms needing workers are urged to call the office.

A BRAINSTORM HELPED ME EARN $250 A WEEK

By a Wall Street Journal Subscriber

Not long ago I went to a college reunion. I spent some time with some chaps who were having a "brainstorm"—a talk-fest where each man contributes his own ideas on a certain subject.

The subject of this particular discussion was MONEY! There was one man in the group who earned more than all the rest of us, but he wouldn't talk. So we ganged up on him and kept shooting questions at him. Finally, he opened up and gave us some wonderful ideas. I can't remember all he said, but one bit of advice I do recall. He said, "Subscribe to The Wall Street Journal. It will help you get ahead."

Well, to make a long story short, I tried it, and IT DID. Within a short time, my income was up to $250 a week.

This story is typical. If you think The Wall Street Journal is just for millionaires, you are wrong. The Journal helps salaried men making $7,500 to $25,000 a year. It is valuable to small business men. It can be of enormous benefit to the ambitious young man who wants to win advancement.

The Wall Street Journal is the complete business DAILY. Has largest staff of writers on business and finance. The only business paper served by all three big press associations. It costs $24 a year, but you can get a Trial Subscription for three months for $7. Just tear out this ad and attach check for $7 and mail. Or tell us to bill you. Ike's New Trip Unlike His Last

Journey to Far East Will Have Concrete, Quite Limited Goals

BY WILLIAM S. WHITE
Washington — Hard, practical presidential travel for thoroughly planned, concrete and quite limited objectives, yes. But no more vaguely hopeful jet-liner trips for undefined "good will" objectives so shimmeringly lofty as to be neither clear nor attainable.

Thus has U.S. foreign policy been turned right about in the wake of the summit conference that never was.

President Eisenhower's forthcoming 23,000-mile mission to the orient signals more than a shift in the focus of Washington's concern from west to east. Late last year, he paid calls to countries in all sorts of categories — pro-western, basically anti-western, neutralist.

To See Only Allies
This time, the president is going to see allied peoples only — and this time he goes in a far different mood. This time, he has specific aims which are open to specific and measurable accomplishment. Here are the main points in the new itinerary, where in each case there is no doubt whatever as to just what the president hopes to achieve:

Japan — (1.) To strengthen a pro-western regime which is under heavy attack from angry home minorities for having negotiated the new security treaty with the United States. (2.) To show in the clearest way that the United States will not let down a Japan which is now being threatened with soviet rockets if it permits Japan-based American aircraft to "violate soviet air space."

Republic of Korea — (1.) To demonstrate American interest in an orderly transfer of command from the old regime of Syngman Rhee to the new. (2.) To make it wholly plain to the communists in North Korea that they would be unwise to attempt another invasion of South Korea.

To Ease Friction
The Philippines — To try to ease several real and easily visible sources of friction between that republic and the U.S.

Formosa (Taiwan) — (1.) To give this island home of the Nationalist Chinese government a direct pledge of continued American support.

(2.) To "show the flag" in the strongest possible manner — through the president's personal presence — against new menaces being offered by Communist China.

This new journey has hopes incomparably smaller than had the last presidential journey afar. Then it was somehow supposed that great things for general peace — of a nature not ever quite brought down to earth — could somehow be obtained. Now it is wholly clear that no such grand and sweeping solutions are in sight. No self-delusion now lies upon the scene.

May Produce Gains
This modest approach may even produce moderate gains to offset, in a tiny but real way, the immoderate losses that followed upon our own immoderate hopes for that last series of great visitations.

People here who ought to know are divided as to whether the communists are preparing big or only small trouble in the orient. One responsible view is that a genuine outbreak may be expected in what used to be French Indo-China.

Another view, and one no less responsible, is that the Asian communists intend not actual war action but only a series of alarms and harassments to throw the west further off balance while it tries to recover from the shock of the lost summit. Whichever view is right, it is entirely relevant to the president's new journey abroad.

Thump on Back Good for Stuck Crumb, but Not Hard Object

Dr. Molner that it isn't good. Which is right?—E.W.R.

With the example you cite—a crumb of bread or cake—hacking on the back wouldn't be likely to do any harm. The object—the crumb, that is—is soft and readily dissolves or is broken up.

It's a different story if the object is larger and hard, say a nut, bead, bone or some such thing. In that case pounding on the back can cause the victim to gasp and inhale—thus jamming the obstruction deeper into the windpipe. (Above all, never poke a finger into the person's throat; you may push the object down against the larynx and shut off the breath entirely.)

(And picking a child up by the heels, or otherwise turning him upside down, is not person cough; eventually he will usually expel whatever is there.

However, a slight touch of panic usually prevails. Somebody has to "do something," and there you are. Actually, the less that is done, the better.

If continued coughing and choking give reason to believe that the object, whatever it is, remains stuck in the throat or windpipe, the proper course is to have the victim examined with a bronchoscope—and choking give reason to believe that the object, whatever it is, remains stuck in the throat or windpipe. Coughing, one things fished out of people by this means.

Americans Have High Real Income

BY SYLVIA PORTER
If you're an average American family or single individual, you have more real income to spend this year than at any time in your life.

This goes for your income after the federal government has taken its tax bite as well as before.

This applies to your income with a bronchoscope the doctor can see what he is doing. He can avoid the risk of jamming the object against the larynx or otherwise shifting it so the victim can get no air at all.

One of the worst things to inhale remains the ordinary peanut. I have nothing against peanuts, but we'll all be better off if we don't try to eat them while running, talking or laughing.

A peanut is small enough to get down in dangerous territory, big enough to be an awful nuisance, and it won't dissolve or soften. A doctor, over the years, gets pretty used to extracting peanuts from throats and windpipes.

By the way: Be especially careful with small children. My own rule is never to give them peanuts. Most of them are so fond of peanut butter that keeping the whole nuts away from them is no great deprivation.

in terms of "constant" dollars as well as in terms of "current" dollars—meaning it applies after your income has been adjusted to the decline in its purchasing power as well as before any consideration of what the rise in the cost of living has done to the value of your dollars since World War II.

Facts Often Distorted
You have distinctly more buying power than in the so-called good old days before you were hit by the heaviest income tax load in American history and before the cost of living started on a prolonged climb to ever-higher peaks.

While the facts are indisputable, they often are distorted by those who either don't know them or who willingly obscure them to "prove" a special point.

Here are the latest facts just released by the commerce department to underline this significant tale of American life.

Better Before, After

1. In constant dollars, the average personal income of American families and untaxed individuals today before taxes is $6,520 compared with $5,290 in 1947 and $4,100 in 1929.

Obviously, the average American is better off before taxes, for these figures are expressed in terms of a dollar which has been "corrected" so that its purchasing power today is about the same as in 1947 and in 1929.

2. Also expressed in constant dollars, but after taxes, the average income per family and individual today is $5,880 against $4,770 in 1947 and $4,070 in 1929.

More Big Incomes

3. Today 65 per cent of America's families and single individuals have before-tax incomes of more than $4,000, and 42 per cent have before-tax incomes of more than $6,000. As recently as 1947, the comparable figures were 37 per cent and a scant 17 per cent.

4. The number of families and individuals in the over $10,000 class has soared from 5 per cent in 1947 to 14 per cent now. At the same time, the number in the under-$2,000 class has shrunk from 25 to 14 per cent. (Both before income taxes.)

Pat on Back

Of course, the fundamental explanation has been the general climb in paychecks. But the skyrocketing number of vital forces also have been working wives, the mounting importance of incomes from dividends and interest, rising payments via social security, retirement programs, etc.

At this moment of reappraisal of and spreading discontent with ourselves, let us give America one little pat on its economic back.

For every statistic in this report pounds home that the great middle-income revolution of our generation—one of the most spectacular social-economic upheavals of all time—is still going strong. And within the framework of our system of private capitalism. (Copyright, 1960)

"Ammonia is a profitable management practice"

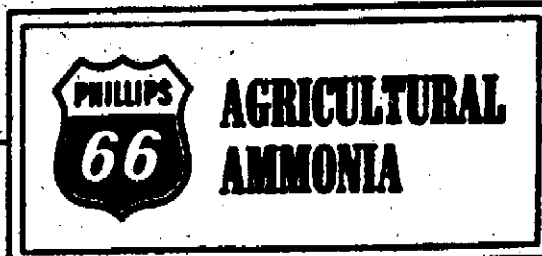

CURTIS JAMES OF LIVINGSTON, WISCONSIN, reports ammonia has other benefits besides bigger yields

"What really keeps us sold on ammonia, besides the bigger yields, is the job it does decomposing all the manure we apply. The soil works so much nicer. Ammonia increases the protein content of our corn. And this extra feed value we get from corn is very important in our dairy and beef feeding. The corn we grow always goes farther than the corn we buy for feed. About 100 pounds of Phillips 66 Ammonia is side dressed 2 or 3 weeks after corn is up. Our corn usually makes around 100 bushels per acre," says Mr. James, who farm 500 acres in Iowa county. Thousands of Midwest farmers use Phillips 66 Ammonia to help assure top net profits per acre. Field reports prove this 82% nitrogen fertilizer (1) produces more corn per acre (2) increases forage yields (3) boosts small grain yields (4) improves pasture for more meat and milk.

See your Phillips 66 Distributor now. You can depend on better ammonia service—more money for you from every acre. Phillips 66 Ammonia may be applied by you or your distributor.
